General Post Office, Adelaide, 22nd July, 1862.

SEALED TENDERS will be received at this office until MONDAY, the 1st September, at noon, for the conveyance by steam packet, of the English Mails between Adelaide and King George's Sound, for three years, commencing with the September homeward mail.

The tenders to state the tonnage and horse-power of the steamer proposed to be employed; and satisfactory sureties will be required that the steamer will be at the disposal of the Government, and ready, if necessary, to start on the 24th of every month.

The steamer, if required, must call at the Glenelg Jetty both outwards and inwards, and for the mails inwards must wait their arrival at King George's Sound.

The contract will embrace the conveyance of all mails put on board, whether English, colonial, or foreign.

The vessel and fittings, as to boats, to be subject to the approval of the Postmaster-General; and the crew must include a sufficient number to man a boat efficiently for transhipping the mails if necessary.

The vessel will be required to convey any officers of the Post Office free of charge.

Accommodation must be afforded for closing a supplementary outward mail on board while in the river; and the vessel must heave-to if required, for the officers engaged in so doing to land, per mail-boat, outside the lightship.

The space allotted for the mails, as also the accommodation for closing the supplementary mail, must be subject to the approval of the Postmaster-General; and no person must be allowed access to the place in which the mails are deposited.

While employed in conveying the mails, the vessel must not be engaged in any service (such as towing vessels, &c.), which would retard her passage; and in the case of the inward mails, they must be landed before any person can be allowed to leave the vessel.

The contractor will be required to take all risk of delay through the non-arrival of the ocean steamer, as no claim will be allowed for demurrage.

If, from stress of weather, or any other cause, the contractor shall fail to put the mails on board the ocean steamer at King George's Sound, the whole of the subsidy apportioned for that trip shall be forfeited.

The Government reserve the power to terminate this contract at any time during the three years if the service should not be performed satisfactorily, or if the Government should decide on discontinuing the same, upon giving three months' notice of their intention; or, in the event of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamers discontinuing to call at King George's Sound, the Government to have the right of terminating this contract immediately.

The amount of contract will be paid in monthly instalments, in accordance with the Treasury regulations.

The contractor and two sureties (whose signatures must be attached to the tender) will be required to enter into a bond, in double the amount of the tender, for the due performance of the contract.

The contractor will also be required to execute an agreement for the due performance of the contract.

Tenders to be addressed to the Postmaster-General, and marked on the left-hand corner "Tender for the conveyance of Mails between Adelaide and King George's Sound."

J. W. LEWIS, Postmaster-General.

At the last annual meeting of this company a bonus was again declared to the policy holders (insured with profits) equivalent to 2 per cent. on the amount of their policies for each year they have been current—a continuation of success never, we believe, exceeded by any life office.

The Actuary's report describes the statistical and monetary position of the company's Life Branch from the commencement, and exhibits an increase of business to an extent beyond the most sanguine anticipations which had previously been formed.

Henry Mort, Esq.

In announcing to the public the proposed formation of a Joint Stock Company for the transaction of the business of fire and life insurance, the Provisional Committee conceive it to be almost unnecessary to point out the advantage that must necessarily flow from such an enterprise, if established on the basis of a sound organisation, and subjected to the wholesome restraint of a prudent management. There is abundance of disengaged capital in the colony for purposes of local investment, and a corresponding desire on the part of capitalists to avail themselves of suitable opportunities for investing. And it is presumed that this feeling on the part of the monied interest must necessarily increase in proportion as the proposition introduced to their notice is calculated to invite their confidence, and secure their support. And, apart from this consideration, it must be evident that while, on the one hand, the best security is offered to the public, so, on the other hand, the ratio of loss to the Companies themselves is diminished by a larger and wider distribution of fire and life risks.

Without, therefore, entering into numerous and detailed reasons, why a new company of the kind proposed is both desirable and necessary, the Provisional Committee beg leave to state for public information their intended mode of procedure, in reference to the formation and organisation of the Company.

The Provisional Committee will act simply as an "ad interim" body, until a Board of Directors shall have been elected out of the general body of shareholders.

Their duties will be confined to the receipt of applications for shares, and the allotment thereof; the receipt of the preliminary deposits; the preparation of the deed of settlement for the consideration and approval of the shareholders; and generally such other matters as are necessarily antecedent to the formation of the Company.

The Provisional Committee, in relation to the allotment of shares, or any other advantages which the Company may offer, will stand upon precisely the same footing as all other applicants, and the whole of the shares will be open for public application.

No application will be entertained for more than 500 shares, and the allotment will be strictly PRO RATA.

It is proposed at present to call up not more than £1 per share of the capital stock, say 10s. deposit on notification of the allotment, which deposit shall be the preliminary qualification of a shareholder, and 10s. on execution of the deed of settlement.

So soon as the Provisional Committee shall have prepared the draft deed of settlement, a meeting will be called of allottees who have paid the deposit, for the purpose of considering and adopting the same. And immediately after the adoption of the draft deed another meeting will be called of allottees who have paid the residue of allotment, to elect the first directors, trustees, and auditors of the Company, and execute the deed, when the functions of the Provisional Committee will cease and determine.

As soon as the necessary preliminaries are completed, the business of the Company will be commenced, and as early as practicable an Act of Incorporation will be applied for to the Legislature. The selection of the Company's banker and solicitor will be left to the Provisional Committee.

To admit of applications from the country, the share list will be kept open until Saturday, the 16th August, after which date no further applications of any kind can be entertained.

Applications for shares in the annexed form may be made on or before the 16th instant to the Provisional Committee, addressed to the care of Messrs. Lennon and Cape, stock and share brokers, Terry's-buildings, 136, Pitt-street, Sydney, where the prospectus and forms of application, and all the information connected with the Company, may be obtained.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

To the Provisional Committee of the United Fire and Life Insurance Company of Sydney.

Gentlemen,—I have to request that you will allot me Shares in the United Fire and Life Insurance Company of Sydney, and I hereby agree to accept the same or any less number that may be allotted to me, to pay the calls as specified in the Prospectus, and to sign the Deed of Settlement when requested to do so.

ASHDOWN and CO.

JOHN BAPTIST, in returning thanks to the public generally of New South Wales and the neighbouring colonies for past favours, offers for sale, this season, the most extensive and varied stock of Fruit Trees, Flowering and Ornamental trees and Shrubs to be found in the Australian colonies.

The soil of his establishment being naturally poor and exposed to the most trying winds, the advantage to purchasers getting trees from such a situation is evident. John Baptist offers this explanation, as many parties are under the impression that all fruit trees, plants, &c., offered for sale by him are grown on rich soil.

John Baptist respectfully solicits intending purchasers to call at the nursery and view his collection previous to purchasing, as he firmly believes they will be pleased with the growth and healthy state of all plants which will be offered to them.

Prices, moderate; and any person requiring a large number of plants will be dealt with on liberal terms.

All orders from the country and neighbouring colonies punctually attended to; trees and plants correctly labelled and carefully packed.

Omnibuses leave the Post-office every half-hour, and convey passengers to within a few yards from the entrance to the gardens.

All communications to be addressed to JOHN T. BAPTIST, Junior, Bourke-street, Surry Hills, Sydney.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1862.

THE House met yesterday at twenty-seven minutes past three p.m.

Mr. WEEKES and Mr. COWPER laid upon the table, respectively, a return relating to the travelling expenses of public officers, and a report from the Library Committee. Both documents were ordered to be printed.

The SPEAKER pronounced a petition presented by Mr. DANGAR, on the 29th ultimo, against the Matrimonial Causes Bill, to be informal, because addressed to the Legislative Council.

Dr. LANG presented a petition from certain Presbyterians, praying the incorporation of a Presbyterian College in connection with the University.

In answer to Mr. W. FORSTER, Mr. COWPER admitted that a seaman and marine of H. M. S. Orpheus had been imprisoned in the cells at Cockatoo Island, in accordance with a practice formerly supposed to be legal, but which, having been found to be illegal, would be discontinued in future.

Mr. BUCHANAN begged leave to call the attention of the Government to the circumstance of two sailors of a merchant vessel having been lately apprehended by the police without any warrant or other authority, and, as it appeared, against the wishes of their captain, who had given the men leave to amuse themselves on shore.

Mr. COWPER asked for further particulars. Mr. BUCHANAN declined giving any.

Mr. DANGAR, with reference to a late statement in the Empire, denied that he had been absent the day before, when the House was adjourned for want of a quorum.

Mr. MACLEAY presented a petition from Goulburn against the bill to prohibit future grants in aid of public worship.

Mr. BUCHANAN, wishing to present another from the Lachlan district, complaining of the inconvenient site of a local post-office, the SPEAKER desired the hon. member to let the matter stand over, as it was doubtful whether the petition was in order.

It was subsequently withdrawn by the hon. member.

In answer to Mr. WISDOM, Mr. ROBERTSON stated that no portion of the Burrangong gold-field had been yet set apart for the Chinese, but that a surveyor was on the ground, in order to carry out the arrangement in question.

Petitions were presented, respectively—by Mr SAMUEL, from Wellington, and by Mr. EGAN, from Monaro, against the Matrimonial Causes Bill—by Mr. DICK, from Mrs. Eliza Lockyer, setting forth the services of her late husband, as ground for compensation; and by Mr. SHEPHERD, from Roman Catholics of St. Leonards, against the abolition of State-aid to religion.

In answer to Mr. SAMUEL, Mr. WEEKES said that a proposal had been made by the Government of South Australia, to which those of Victoria, and New South Wales had acceded, for a meeting of delegates at Melbourne, with a view to settle the question of an intercolonial tariff.

In answer to Mr. DALGLEISH, Mr. ROBERTSON said that an arbitrator had been nominated by the Government to decide the disputes which had arisen between Mr. Berry and certain conditional purchasers, in regard to lands claimed under the Lands Alienation Act.

Petitions were presented by Mr. GRAY, respectively, from Illawarra and adjacent districts, against the Matrimonial Causes Bill; and from Kiama, against the abolition of State-aid to religion.

Another petition, in the hands of the same hon. member, from Protestants of Kiama, against the bill to prohibit future grants in aid of public worship, was ruled inadmissible by the Speaker, because not concluding with a prayer.

Petitions were presented, respectively—by Mr. TERRY, from Mudgee, against the Matrimonial Causes Bill; by Mr. EGAN, from Monaroo, against the bill to prohibit future grants in aid of public worship; and by Mr. ROTTON, from Roman Catholics of Hartley against the abolition of State-aid.

The first petition above-mentioned, presented by Mr. Gray, was ruled informal by the Speaker, as also that presented by Mr. Dick, both on the ground of having no proper signature.

Some discussion took place on this point.

Mr. CUNNEEN presented a petition from Dural, against the Bill to prohibit Future Grants in aid of Public Worship.

The House having gone into committee on the Matrimonial Causes Bill, two motions, virtually for the resumption of the House, were moved by Mr. EGAN and Mr. FAUCETT, of which one was negatived by 20 to 18, and the second, superseding the committee, carried by 20 to 19.

The Masters and Servants Act Amendment Bill was postponed for a week, by 33 to 6.

The Real Property Bill was postponed for a fortnight.

Mr. HOSKINS moved the second reading of the Vagrancy Prevention Bill, pointing out the arbitrary character of the present law, and the improvements this bill would effect, by abolishing penalties for idleness, and other offences not properly within the province of legislation.

Mr. W. FORSTER moved the adjournment of the debate for a week, which, after some discussion, was agreed to.

Dr. LANG moved the second reading of the Law of Primogeniture Abolition Bill, giving a brief history of the law of descent from early times, and in other countries, particularly in Great Britain. The hon. member deprecated the establishment here of a landed aristocracy, and urged the benefits of subdivision of estates, from the examples of France and the United States.

Mr. W. FORSTER moved the adjournment of the debate, which, after further discussion, was carried by 15 to 14, and fixed for that day week by 20 to 6.

The SPEAKER announced that the clerk had been summoned to give evidence before the Supreme Court, in the case of Buchanan v. Fairfax.

Leave was given to the Clerk to attend.

At a quarter before eight p.m., the SPEAKER, finding that a quorum was not present, adjourned the House to the usual hour on Tuesday next.

THE misfortunes which have befallen the Zambezi Mission will occasion much regret in Great Britain. The reports of Dr. LIVINGSTONE induced a number of zealous men to constitute an expedition to establish a mission, on a large scale, under the auspices of the Church of England. The first Missionary Bishop sent by that Church was consecrated for the new diocese. Everything that wealth and experience could combine to ensure success were placed at the service of this new experiment; and here after two or three years we have lamentable accounts of failure, and that under circumstances of peculiar perplexity. The letter of Dr. KIRK, written on board H.M.S. Pioneer, gives some particulars which naturally create a wish for more detailed information. We are far from condemning those measures of defence which were adopted by the Bishop. If exposed to immediate attack it might be proper or admissible to stand upon the defensive, and even to anticipate the plunderers by depriving them of their power to execute their purpose; but still there is something rather shocking in the mode in which the events are related by Dr. KIRK. When we read of a Bishop making attacks upon the various camps of the AJAWA, and being successful, and then of the Bishop avenging the loss of his goods by forming an armed party of MAKOLOLO natives—destroying the village of the Chief and carrying off his flocks, we certainly are more and more lost in bewilderment. But if there is some difficulty in accounting for the course pursued by the Bishop, there is none in tracing the hostile attacks which he thought it his duty to repress. The slave trade—that curse of Africa—reveals itself wherever Europeans can be traced. They create everywhere in the minds of the natives, either the spirit of war, in order that there may be captives for sale, or that fear, which is every where the parent of cruelty, and which induces the unhappy Africans to wreak upon Europeans the forocious revenge which has been aroused and infuriated by European example. This deadly trade is at the foundation of all those difficulties which have beset the civilisation of Africa, and which have occasioned the sacrifice of the lives of so many missionaries in former times. It is to be hoped that after having concluded with America a treaty which gives to both countries the right of search, and thus the means of effectual repression—Great Britain will deal peremptorily with those other Powers of inferior grade, who, while pretending to discourage, are really the main abettors of the slave trade. Until this great crime against humanity shall be finally suppressed the disorders which our intelligence records will always interpose between the missionary and the civilisation of the African people.

The Zambezi mission, planned upon a munificent scale, and promising great results—will not, we hope, be abandoned. If the missionaries prosecute their task in the spirit of their message the natives will soon learn to distinguish them from the slave-hunting Europeans, and will seek refuge under their auspices. There may indeed be some danger of a theocratic government arising, and thus those forms of evil which such a Government has ever occasioned. This danger, however, will probably be obviated by the enterprise of independent Europeans, and the existence of missions of various denominations side by side with each other.

It is not the custom of the English people to be discouraged by a rebuff or even by a temporary failure. We have no doubt that in the same intrepid spirit—in this instance rather erratic in its manifestation—others will be found to step into the place of those who have fallen, and, after longer experience, improve the advantages which may be already acquired.

It is a moot question whether in the propagation of Christianity among savage people a better plan is not to send those employed in that task in very small companies such as shall excite no umbrage, supersede no authority, and depend entirely upon the protection of the people whose interests it is proposed to serve. It has been often found that men going with their staff in their hand, and carrying nothing with them but those small presents which savages covet, have been welcomed as guests and entertained as strangers, and have been able by their residence, unsuspected of mischievous designs, to acquire the language and to engage the confidence of the people. On the other hand a large display of wealth, a manifestation of force, a setting up of authority and the gathering together of numbers, have awakened suspicion and distrust, and—as in the instance mentioned by Dr. KIRK—left the impression upon the natives "that their teachers came rather to fight than to instruct them."

The civilization of Africa will be the work of ages; but it is not less certain. When the people are not near the disastrous influence of Europeans, they are commonly mild and impressible. The teeming millions of Africa must surely have in reserve some better destiny than has hitherto been assigned them. With the infusion of higher notions of their nature and moral responsibility we may hope to see simultaneously a taste for the gratifications which their own industry may furnish. Thus the great revolution which is taking place in America, by which the slave will recover his freedom, will open to him, when its passions are allayed, the light of Christian civilization, and thus we reward his long suffering. The policy of European nations will be purified from the last remnants of the slave trade, and thus smooth the way to the elevation of the nations of Africa. Who can tell but that from the millions of American slaves some great apostle and liberator may be found with an intellectual vigour and moral energy which shall qualify him to go to his own country, and with a constitution adapted to its climate, and so give back to Africa advantages which may compensate for ages of persecution and sorrow? That people who have proved most efficient instructors of the human race were cradled in bondage as severe and unrelenting as that which has oppressed the African. It is in the same school that noble minds of African origin may be formed into the instructors of their regenerated race. Singular destiny for an oppressed people, to see their oppressors suffer, without one effort of their own, the deserved chastisement of their crimes. There would be no difficulty in tracing a startling retribution in holy writ. The same helpless endurance—the same haughty tyranny—the same High Hand, and the same terrible overthrow.

THE DISTRESS IN LANCASHIRE.—A public meeting was held on Monday evening last, at Yass, for the purpose of taking into consideration the best means of raising subscriptions for the relief of the distressed operatives in the cotton manufacturing districts at home. Although the weather was very unfavourable—the wind blowing in fitful gusts and the rain descending at times in torrents—the attendance, which included a considerable number of ladies, was remarkably good, and evidenced in a striking degree the interest taken and the sympathy felt for the starving cotton spinners and their families. Resolutions in furtherance of the objects of the meeting were unanimously passed. A subscription list was then opened, and sums amounting in the aggregate to over £165 were subscribed in the room.—Yass Courier.

THE LANCASHIRE RELIEF FUND.—On Sunday last collections were made morning and evening in the Scots Kirk, when eloquent sermons were preached by the Rev. W. Ross, and the sum collected amounted to £25 6s. 8d. Messrs. Tennant and Nelson have canvassed a portion of the town, principally on Saturday, and have collected some £144 6s. 6d.—Goulburn Herald.

ROASTING A BULLOCK.—On Thursday afternoon, the bullock which had been roasted whole on the premises of Mr. Burton, for the benefit of the Grafton Hospital, was declared "done to a turn," and on its removal from the huge spit, where it had been revolving for some sixteen or eighteen hours, a considerable rush took place to secure the "tit bits." The amount realised by the sale of the meat was £4 10s. The bullock was the gift of Messrs. Sabien and Hancock, and the furnace was erected by Messrs. French and Wray, who also undertook the roasting business; Mr. Burton, of the Talbot Head Inn, providing the necessary accompaniments in the shape of vegetables, &c. The whole proceeding, from its novelty, attracted a considerable number to the vicinity of the operation. —Clarence and Richmond Examiner.

THE ORANGE CULTURE.—An important meeting is called by Mr. George Oakes, at Parramatta, on Monday, at one o'clock, for the purpose of considering the best method of curing the blight in oranges. This destructive feature has lately presented itself in the orange groves, and it is hoped by a full consideration of the subject and united action, a remedy may be at once applied and further damage prevented.

THE CIVIL SERVICE DEPARTMENT.—In publishing the petition, now in course of signature, from the Government officers, in yesterday's Herald, it was mentioned that it had emanated from the Audit Office. We are requested to say that this is an error, and that the petition is the joint production and effort of the different public departments.

SCHOONER FOR THE PILOT SERVICE.—The Government having recently advertised for tenders and models for a schooner for the pilot service, they have given a contract for the construction of the vessel to Mr. Chowne, of Pyrmont. The model sent in by Mr. Chowne, which is that of a fore-and-aft schooner, was selected by the Pilot Board as the most perfect of those that were sent in. The schooner is to be of about 110 tons builders' measurement, and her cost will be about £20 per ton. She is to be finished in six months.

LANCASHIRE DISTRESS RELIEF FUND.—A general meeting of members of the musical profession, convened by advertisement, was held yesterday afternoon at Poehlman's Hotel, for the purpose of making final arrangements for a concert in aid of the Lancashire Distress Relief Fund. The attendance was small, and the proceedings partook of a conversational character. Mr. W. J. Johnson was voted to the chair. It was stated that letters had been received from Madame Sara Flower and from Mr. Cobley, offering their services at the concert. It was moved by M. Boulanger, seconded by Mr. J. E. Deane, and carried, "That the committee be limited to seven;" and it was next carried, on the motion of Mr. Anderson, seconded by M. Boulanger, "That the chairman do nominate the committee." The chairman thereupon proceeded to name the following gentlemen:—Mr. A. Anderson, M. E. Boulanger, Mr. Callen, Mr. E. Deane, Mr. W. J. Johnson, Mr. H. Marsh, Mr. W. Stanley. Mr. Marsh then proposed, Mr. Stanley seconded, and it was carried, "That Mr. C. Kemp be requested to act as treasurer, and Mr. J. T. Reid as hon. secretary." It was next resolved on the motion of M. Boulanger, seconded by Mr. Callen, "That the entire selection and management of the programme be left to the committee." M. Boulanger next proposed, and Mr. Marsh seconded, and it was carried, "That the committee should wait upon the amateur supporters of the profession, to request them to assist them in carrying out the object of the present meeting." It was next resolved, having been proposed by M. Boulanger and seconded by Mr. Stanley, "That the committee should be empowered to wait upon his Excellency the Governor and Lady Young, to solicit their patronage, and to ask them to name a day for the concert that would be suitable to them; and also, to apply for the patronage of the public bodies." It was further decided that Mr. Johnson, M. Boulanger, and Mr. Marsh should be a sub-committee to wait upon his Excellency, for the purpose of carrying out the previous resolution. Having made arrangements for holding the meetings of the committee, a vote of thanks was given to the chairman, and the proceedings terminated.

COLONIAL ARROWROOT.—Our Maitland correspondent writes:—We have this day seen a very fine sample of arrowroot grown by Messrs. Vindin, at their farm on the Louth Park Road, West Maitland. The small quantity at present prepared for use has been tested, and by competent judges is considered superior to that grown in the South Sea Islands. Messrs. Vindin have about six or seven hundred weight of the root in the process of preparation, and should the experiment prove remunerative, they contemplate extending their operations.

THE WEST MAITLAND SUBSCRIPTION FOR THE RELIEF OF THE DISTRESSED COTTON-SPINNERS.—Our correspondent states that a meeting of the committee appointed on Wednesday evening, at the School of Arts, to collect subscriptions in aid of the distressed distressed operatives in Lancashire, was held at the Ensign Office, West Maitland. The course of action decided upon was, to divide the town into districts and commence a vigorous canvass for subscriptions. It was also agreed to forward circulars to the several ministers of religion, urging them to preach in aid of the funds. The appeal will be made on an early day next week.

AMATEUR ETHIOPIAN CONCERT.—It will be seen by an advertisement that a concert in aid of the distressed Lancashire manufacturers is to be given at the Masonic Hall, on the 14th instant, by a number of amateur Ethiopian serenaders. The company will be remembered as having performed very successfully before crowded audiences at the Australian Library and at the Masonic Hall; and as the arrangements in preparation promise an equally attractive entertainment, and as, moreover, the proceeds are to be devoted to a benevolent object, the concert will, no doubt, be liberally patronised.

ACCLIMATIZATION.—The Pastoral Times states that efforts are being made to establish an acclimatization Society at Deniliquin.

BLOOD STOCK.—Mr. Rutledge, of Molonglo, sold about three weeks ago a pet foal by Artaxerxes. The purchaser was a gentleman from Monaro, and the figure was £75.—Braidwood Observer.

BRAIDWOOD DIGGINGS.—The reports from the several gold-fields of the district are favourable. The gold at the Araluen continues steadily remunerative to the hands employed. At Major's Creek nothing is doing. At all the diggings rain is in request, but at the Creek nothing but a flood will suffice to revive its auriferous prospects.—Observer of Wednesday.

PLEURO-PNEUMONIA.—The Pastoral Times says:—Messrs. M'Laurin and Sons have received the whole of their compensation money for the cattle affected with this disease and destroyed on their run at Yarra Yarra, amounting, in all, to about £9500.

THE NEW ZEALAND GOLD-FIELDS.

COROMANDEL.—Our Auckland contemporary, the Daily Southern Cross, of the 11th ultimo, says:—In yesterday's paper we announced the arrival of gold and quartz specimens, weighing 14 lbs. 7½ ozs. The largest specimen weighs 9½ lbs., and contains 50 per cent. gold. There are several beautiful specimens, one of which is of crystalised quartz. In the smaller specimens several contain more than 50 per cent. of the precious metal. The large specimen was got on the 1st of July, and the finders very wisely kept it quiet until they came to town. The smaller specimens were found on Tuesday and Wednesday morning last, two of the party, Messrs. Watson and Farrel, leaving on Wednesday evening. These specimens were taken out of claims Nos. 1, 3, 4, and 11; the claims being held by members of the same party. A correspondent, under date, July 9th, writes to state that "specimens are being got on all the claims of the creek under No. 14." The water is the great drawback. Owing to the wet, claim No. 1 has not been bottomed. When spring sets in we believe the finds will be increased.

OTAGO.—The Daily Times of July 18th reports that the past month has been by no means a brilliant one as regards mining affairs; indeed the severity of the weather has, in some districts, almost put a stop to the operations of the diggers. Still, the accounts we have received cannot be said to be of a discouraging nature, for the winter has had a far less disastrous effect upon the mines than was anticipated. It was so much the fashion during the summer to talk as if there would be positively nothing doing in the winter, that it is with a sort of pleased surprise that people find that the interruption to mining is only partial and occasional, and that, in point of fact, if so many people had not left the diggings to avoid the Otago winter, the yield of gold would hardly have exhibited any diminution. In the high mountainous districts, such as Timbrell's Gully, Highlay, work has been almost at a standstill, but not quite, for by the last accounts, there were still people at work there, and doing well, in spite of the cold and the difficulty of procuring fuel. On the other diggings there have been frosty days, when, in consequence of the freezing of the water, washing was out of the question, but these have been quite exceptional, only three or four in the whole season—and mid-winter is now past. The fact is, that the climate of Otago is far milder than that of the South of England. On the low grounds, a whole day's frost is almost unknown; but, in the high lands, where most of the diggings are situated, it is cold and bleak. One thing that has militated greatly against the success of the mining population this winter has been the bad state of the roads, which, being hastily made a few months back when the rush took place, have all fallen out of repair together, with the wet and frosts and heavy traffic, and are now almost impassable. The effect of this has been to greatly enhance the cost of living on the gold-fields, and thus to throw an additional difficulty in the way of the miner. This difficulty will, however, be removed before another season comes round, and the roads this time will be made at leisure and in a proper manner, under the inspection and supervision of a competent engineer. One effect of the bad roads has been to stop the waggon escort. It has now been decided, however, to send the gold by pack horses instead. The escort arrived in town yesterday evening, bringing down the following quantities of gold:—

N.S.W. RIFLE ASSOCIATION MATCHES.
To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Permit me, through the medium of your valuable journal, to call the attention of the committee of N. S. W. Rifle Association, to the necessity which exists for stating positively the date of the Government ammunition which is to be used at the forthcoming matches. If the shooting of the N.S.W. Volunteers is to compare at all with that of Volunteers elsewhere, this must be done, and provision made by which the intending competitors may procure a sufficient supply (either gratis, or at a reasonable price) to practise with. This must be apparent to all, for this reason, the Government ammunition of 1860 is considerably stronger than that of 1859, and that of 1861 still stronger than that of 1860, so that the elevation necessary for one will not at all suit another; and if we are to attain any degree of accuracy at all, we must have a supply of one date of ammunition.

Yours, &c.,
PRIVATE.

Balmain, July 28th.

P.S.—Under present existing arrangements the most we get is about thirty rounds per man, per month—sufficient for one practice.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Friday, July 25th, to August 1st.

The past week has not presented any features of peculiar interest. Our gold-fields continue productive, and as a consequence, business has been rather brisk with the outlying districts. The last escort which arrived on Thursday, brought down 15,611 ounces—a total that satisfactorily establishes the character of our gold-fields.

His Excellency the Governor-in-Chief has returned from his visit of inspection to the collieries and harbour works at Illawarra. Sir John Young felt highly gratified with his trip, especially with the beautiful scenery of the district. The inhabitants were desirous of giving him a public welcome, but by his own express desire, no demonstration was made—the Governor wishing the visit to be regarded as a private one.

A meeting of the allottees in the new Pacific Insurance Company has been held, at which the provisional directors were elected permanent directors. A committee was also chosen to confer with the directory regarding the preparation of the deed of settlement.

It is understood that a bill for the reconstruction of the Legislative Council on an elective basis will be shortly introduced, and that the measure will embody what is known as "Hare's system" of representation, so ably advocated by the Hon. G. K. Holden in the Upper Chamber not many months back.

A French sloop-of-war, the Isis, arrived in the harbour on Saturday last, en route for the settlement at New Caledonia, whither she conveys a detachment of 300 soldiers. The vessel will leave for the French colony in the course of a day or two.

One of those events which are now happily so rare in this colony—a prize-fight—is arranged to come off on Tuesday next in the Bathurst district, the combatants being two professional pugilists named White and Sullivan. The stakes are £500 a-side (!) It is to be hoped for the credit of the district, that the disgraceful proceeding will be thwarted, though from the systematic and secret way in which such matters are managed, the police will no doubt have difficulty in getting on the trail of the parties.

The question of cotton growing in Australia is now exciting much attention, and a Bill for encouraging the practical testing of the experiment on a large scale, has been read a second time in the Assembly. The measure proposes, in consideration of any association investing say £5000 (subject to certain conditions to be entered into with the Executive Government) that land to a certain amount shall be granted—such land or a portion thereof to be sold in liquidation of any loss that the company may experience—the company, on the other hand, binding themselves not to receive any profits that may result from the experiment in the first instance.

The Government are about to introduce a bill into Parliament for regulating the civil service, fixing the grades of office, salaries, terms of promotion, leave of absence, &c. The measure is similar in its details to the Civil Service Bill of Victoria.

Mr. M'Nab, the diver, has been taking advantage of the late favourable weather to visit the scene of the Dunbar's wreck, and endeavoured to recover the anchors and chains. As yet, however, he has not succeeded, but on Tuesday last he sent up several large lumps of concrete matter, consisting of copper coins, knives and forks, shears, hones, leather, and coffin furniture, &c.; also, several large copper bolts, all mixed together in a most extraordinary manner.

The movement in aid of the Lancashire distress fund continues to progress. The Sydney committee have now upwards of £2000 in hand, and meetings in support of the object have been attended with most satisfactory results at Windsor, Parramatta, and other inland towns. It is hoped, indeed, that a second draft of £5000 will be despatched by the next mail steamer.

The coaching interest and entire "rolling stock" of Crane and Roberts, the extensive coach proprietors, have, so far as the Western districts are concerned, been disposed of to Cobb and Co.

The select committee on Land Titles and Registration have brought up a progress report in favour of adopting the system of Mr. Torrens, so well known as the author of the South Australian Land Titles and Transfer Act, now working so successfully in the sister colonies.

The people in the Western Districts are complaining loudly of the state of the roads, particularly the roads between Orange and Bathurst, and Orange and Forbes, which are represented to be in a most deplorable state.

The first-class prize offered by the Brisbane Municipality for the best design for a bridge for that town, has fallen to Mr. F. T. Rose, of Balmain.

An old man named Daniel Baker, aged seventy-six, has died in the Infirmary, from exhaustion, the effects of a rupture of a blood vessel internally. The jury gave a verdict died from natural causes.

A prospectus has been issued of a new Coal Company, called the Alnwick Coal Mining Company. The capital is to be £25,000, in 5000 shares of £5 each, which is to be paid in the following manner:—£1 per share on allotment, and the remainder to be called up in instalments of £1 per share as the works progress. The proposed coal mine is situated at Alnwick, in the county of Northumberland.

Measures have been taken for holding a public meeting at Newcastle, for the purpose, if possible, of bringing about some satisfactory adjustment of the long-standing dispute between the A. A. Company and their miners.

Horse stealing is in full play on Burrangong; and, in fact, all the rogues and vagabonds of the colony seem to be availing themselves of the unprotected state of the district to make hay while the sun shines.

During the quarter that ended on the 30th of June, 1862—the Australian autumn—there were registered in the city of Sydney 560 births and 340 deaths. The average numbers of the five previous autumns, corrected for increase of population, were 648 births and 392 deaths. The births of the past quarter were therefore below the average by 88; the deaths also were below the average by 52.

Captain Pitt, R.A., lately commanding the Volunteer Artillery, has left for Queensland, having received the appointment of Aide-de-Camp to his Excellency Sir George Bowen. Previous to his departure, he was presented with an address and testimonial by the Artillery Companies Nos. 1 and 2.

An interesting and instructive lecture was delivered on Monday evening, by the hon. T. A. Murray, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, to the members of the St. Benedict's Young Men's Society, in their commodious hall, in Abercrombie-street, on the subject of "Tombs and Tumuli, and the tales that they tell."

A child named Eliza Richardson, aged nineteen months, died recently from injuries occasioned by pulling over a pot of hot tea upon its body. The Coroner's jury gave a verdict of "Died from from injuries accidentally received."

The rifle contest between Captain Windeyer's ten Sydney Volunteers and ten selected from the Companies of the Hunter River District was finished at Maitland on Tuesday, and resulted in a tie, both parties having made, points and hits counted, 965.

Several daring robberies have been committed on the Lachlan. In one instance, a shop was robbed of property to the value of £150; in another, a house was entered and £50 taken from a drawer in the owner's bedroom, whilst still later, a man was garotted in the street, and eased of £21 in bank notes.

The scoundrels who robbed the Northern mail are still at large. The police despatched from Tamworth have all returned, without any tidings of the offenders, although a diligent search was effected in every direction from the scene of the robbery. It now seems that the robbers had their faces covered with black crape.

Professor Smith, of the Sydney University, delivered a most interesting lecture on Tuesday evening, in the Masonic Hall, on the International Exhibition of 1862, from which he has just returned. The hall was well filled, and the discourse was listened to with great interest, particularly those portions of it relating to the position of New South Wales in the grand display of art and industry.

The annual meeting of the New South Wales Auxiliary to the London Missionary Society was held on Monday evening, in the Congregational church, Pitt-street. An elaborate report of the proceedings for the past year was presented, and the meeting was addressed by various ministers of religion, as also by two native teachers named Kupa and Te-a-Maru, brought from the islands by the missionary vessel the John Williams.

A rifle match between ten members of the Glebe Company and ten members of the Newtown Company took place at the Glebe butts on Saturday last, the former company winning by twenty-nine points and hits.

Henry Watson Oliver, bank manager, was brought before the Court on Tuesday last, pursuant to remand, charged by John H. Gilchrist, secretary of the Bank of New South Wales, with having, at Bathurst, between the 5th May and the 15th July, being a servant of the Bank of New South Wales, by virtue of his employment, received and taken into his possession certain moneys amounting to £1052 12s. 11d., and a further sum of £960, the moneys of his said employers, and said sums did fraudulently embezzle, steal, take, and carry away. The prisoner was fully committed for trial on the charge; the application for bail being referred to the Attorney-General.

The Treasurer, Mr. Weekes, was to have made his financial statement on Thursday, but was prevented by reason of there being "no House." It is probable the statement will be proceeded with on Tuesday next.

NEW SOUTH WALES PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Friday, August 1.

The Speaker took the chair at twenty-seven minutes past three.

PAPERS.

Mr. WEEKES laid upon the table a return of the travelling expenses of various public officers. The document was ordered to be printed.

Mr. COWPER laid upon the table a report from the Library Committee, recommending certain alterations and additions. Ordered to be printed.

INFORMAL PETITION.

The SPEAKER intimated that the petition presented by Mr. Dangar on the 29th ultimo, against the Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Bill, was informal, inasmuch as it was addressed to the Legislative Council. Under these circumstances it could not be received.

ILLEGAL ARRESTS.

Mr. BUCHANAN drew attention to what he conceived was a gross act of tyranny and illegality, that should receive the immediate attention of the Government. He alluded to the case of two seamen, belonging to one of the merchant ships in harbour, who had obtained leave of absence to spend an evening with their friends on shore. These two men, while proceeding quietly through the streets, were pounced upon by policemen, and, in spite of every explanation and remonstrance, violently arrested without warrant or authority of any description, and imprisoned in a cell for the whole night. On the following morning the captain of the vessel was waited upon and asked to take out a warrant for their apprehension as deserters, but he at once refused to do anything of the kind, stating that the men had his permission to be ashore, as already stated. Now, he (Mr. Buchanan) could not conceive anything more monstrous than this proceeding, which he ventured to say would not be tolerated under the most despotic Governments, much less under any Government owing allegiance to the British Crown; and he maintained it was the bounden duty of the Government to make a full and searching inquiry into the matter, with the view of putting an immediate stop to such gross and glaring violations of the liberty of the subject, as were practised upon a class of persons who were entitled to all the privileges and immunities possessed by British subjects. (Hear, hear.) He did not think the Government would be doing its duty if they omitted to make an immediate investigation into the facts and circumstances of the case. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. COWPER was understood to say he had known nothing whatever of the case referred to, but would cause an inquiry to be made into the facts of the alleged illegal apprehension.

COCKATOO ISLAND.

Mr. FORSTER asked the Colonial Secretary, "Is it true that a sailor or marine, or both, of H.M.S. Orpheus, have been, or are now, imprisoned in the cells at Cockatoo Island? 2. If so, under what circumstances, and by what authority?

Mr. COWPER said it was quite true two men belonging to the Orpheus were confined as stated. It appeared to have been the practice to allow ships of the royal navy to avail themselves of the Cockatoo establishments for prison accommodation while the ships lay in dock, and it was supposed the course was justified by the terms of the Mutiny Act. He had, however, communicated with the authorities at the island, pointing out that the proceeding was illegal.

EXPLANATION.

Mr. DANGAR, alluding to a paragraph in the Empire newspaper, explained that it was not the case that he was one of those hon. members whose absence yesterday occasioned a count-out of the House and a stoppage of the public business. He had been, as he usually was, in his place, and he was desirous of correcting the misstatement lest it might prejudice him in the opinions of his constituents at some future period.

THE CHINESE AT BURRANGONG.

Mr. WISDOM, on behalf and in the absence of Mr. Wilson, asked the Secretary for Lands, "1. Has the Government set apart by proclamation, in accordance with the fifth section of the Gold-Fields Act of 1862, any portion of the Burrangong Gold-field, as a locality on which Chinese may work; if so, what are its boundaries? 2. If not, do the Government intend doing so and when?"

Mr. ROBERTSON said no portion of the gold-field alluded to had yet been set apart for the Chinese, but a surveyor was on the ground, in association with the Commissioner, for the measuring off the boundaries of land for that purpose. He understood, however, that the course intended by the Legislature had been already practically carried into effect, under the direction of the Commissioners.

AUSTRALIAN TARIFF.

Mr. SAMUEL asked the Colonial Treasurer, "1. Has there been any correspondence between the Governments of South Australia, Victoria, and this colony, relative to the establishment of a uniform tariff for the whole of the Australian colonies? 2. Has this Government been invited to send a delegate to Victoria to confer with delegates of the sister colonies on the subject of the tariff? 3. What action has this Government taken or does it intend to take in this matter?"

Mr. WEEKES, in reply, stated that a proposal had been received from the Government of South Australia, that a conference of delegates from the Australian colonies should be held in Melbourne to consider the subject of a uniform tariff. The Government of Victoria had assented to this proposal, and the Government of this colony had expressed its willingness to co-operate with the other colonies on this important measure.

CARCOAR DISTRICT COURT.

Mr. WATT asked the Colonial Secretary, "Is it the intention of the Government to discontinue the District Court at Carcoar; if so, why?"

Mr. COWPER, in reply, stated that such was the intention of the Government. In a communication to the Attorney-General, it was observed, "I recommend the abolition of these last mentioned courts (Carcoar and Molong) first because the business of each of them is of the most trifling description, seldom occupying more than one hour; and secondly, because I anticipate that the business at Forbes, including the time required for travelling the additional distance, will give me employment for about two additional months in each year. In the new proclamation Carcoar should be included in the district of Bathurst, whence it is distant about thirty-two miles, and Molong in that of Orange, from which it is only twenty miles distant."

FREE SELECTION.

Mr. DALGLEISH (without notice), asked the Secretary for Lands—in reference to land in the district of Shoalhaven taken up under the free selection provisions of the Land Act by a person named Macgregor, who had paid the required deposit, but could not get possession of the land—what steps the Government intended to take in the matter.

Mr. ROBERTSON, in reply, said he could not be expected to bear in memory all the circumstances connected with the 8000 applications under this section of the Land Act. He was, however, aware that certain persons (very probably including the person mentioned) had applied for land in a swamp, of which so much had been heard, but Mr. Berry had put in a claim under the improvement clause of the Land Act. These persons having paid their money, the law provided what should be done. There would be an arbitration as to whether these were improvements under the law. On behalf of the Government he (Mr. Robertson) had appointed an arbitrator a month back.

PETITIONS.

The following petitions were presented:—

By Dr. LANG: From certain Presbyterians of Sydney, praying the incorporation of a Presbyterian College within the University of Sydney, under the Affiliated Colleges Act.

In favour of the continuance of State-aid:—By Mr. ROTTON: From inhabitants of Carcoar. By Mr. CUNNEEN: From the inhabitants of the county of Cumberland. By Mr. SHEPHERD: From certain residents in the district of St. Leonards. By Mr. GRAY: From certain Roman Catholics in the district of Kiama, and from certain Protestants (mostly belonging to the Church of England), resident in the vicinity of Kiama. By Mr. EGAN: From certain residents in the district of Monaro. By Mr. MACLEAY: From 170 Catholics in the district of Goulburn.

Against Matrimonial Causes Bill:—By Mr. TERRY, from certain residents of Mudgee. By Mr. EGAN, from certain residents of Monaro. By Mr. GRAY, from certain Roman Catholics resident in the Illawarra district. By Mr. SAMUEL, from certain residents in the district of Wellington.

For Relief:—By Mr. DICK, from Eliza Lockyer, in consideration of her deceased husband's service in a public office.

For Improved Postal Accommodation:—By Mr. BUCHANAN, from seventy-eight residents of the Lachlan district.

MATRIMONIAL CAUSES BILL.

The House then went into Committee for the further consideration of the Matrimonial Causes Bill.

Clause 14. Adulterer to be a co-respondent.

Mr. EGAN desired to know from the hon. member in charge of this bill, whether, after the opposition it had met with in that House and elsewhere, he intended to proceed with it any further? During the last fortnight, not less than thirty petitions had been presented against the measure, and not one received in its favour. He moved that the Chairman do leave the chair, report progress, and ask leave to sit again at a later hour of the evening.

Mr. RAPER seconded the motion.

Mr. HART begged to state that he had opposed the bill hitherto in all its stages, and had, as he conceived, shown sufficient grounds for his opposition thereto. Having done as he believed quite enough to prove himself altogether unfavourable to the principle of the measure, he should not offer any further opposition to it in its details, but should content himself by voting against the third reading. (Hear, hear.)

The question was put from the chair, and negatived by a majority of 20 to 18.

Mr. FAUCETT then moved that the chairman do leave the chair.

This motion having been seconded, was carried on a division by a majority of twenty to nineteen, amid cheers.

MASTERS AND SERVANTS ACT.

Mr. TERRY moved that the second reading of the Masters and Servants Act Amendment Bill stand an Order of the Day for Friday next.

The motion, having been seconded, was carried by a majority of thirty-six to six.

REAL PROPERTY BILL.

On the motion of Mr. DICK, the second reading of the Real Property Bill was postponed for a fortnight.

VAGRANCY PREVENTION BILL.

Mr. HOSKINS moved the second reading of the Vagrancy Prevention Bill. He would have preferred that some member of that House of the legal profession should have taken up the bill, but, although he had spoken to several hon. members on the subject, they had declined to act, assuring him that their time was already too much occupied. There had not been one of them, however, who did not give it as his opinion that the present state of the law required some material alteration. These hon. members had further promised that they would be ready to give him every assistance in what he had undertaken. He did not propose to make any sweeping alteration in the existing vagrancy law, but only such as would denude the present law of its most objectionable features. (Hear.) It appeared to him that there were several offences, punishable under the present law, which were merely moral offences rather than such as it was proper specially to provide against by legal enactment. He freely admitted that much of the sting of the present Act had been taken away by a recent enactment, but the law was still such as required a material modification. The term of imprisonment that might now be awarded under the Act was three months in excess of what it was in England. What he proposed by the present bill was that persons charged with vagrancy should never be dealt with by less than two magistrates, of whom one should be a police magistrate, as being a magisterial functionary more directly responsible to the Government than any local justice of the peace, and for that reason less likely to be unduly swayed by personal feeling. He would never leave it to two unpaid magistrates to decide a case. He thought hon members would see the propriety of supporting such a reform as that. This law was passed in 1851. At that time there was a sort of panic in the colony, and especially in the Legislature, in consequence of the influx of people from all parts of the world, including persons who had been convicts in Tasmania. And it appeared that the Legislature thought the only way to prevent violent outrages was to pass laws unnecessarily severe. This was one of them. The present law applied to persons who had no lawful means of support, or who had not sufficient means of support. He denied, however, the right of any servant of the Government, or of any Government to interfere with the freedom of action of any person by asking how he got his support. If a person had not "sufficient means of support" he could also be brought before a magistrate. But this law could not be carried into effect without raising a burst of indignation all over the country. If then the law was not effectual, why retain it on the statute book? Who was to arbitrarily decide what was sufficient means for any man's support? Some persons might consider 5s. a week sufficient. The hon. member then cited some instances to illustrate the arbitrary manner in which the present law could be carried out. He denied the right of society to interfere with the freedom of action of any person when he did not by his actions injure society. It was provided by the present vagrant law that idle persons were to be punished. Idleness was no doubt a moral crime, but he denied the right of the State to punish for the commission of offences against the moral law. If a person by his idle habits inflicted an injury upon society by neglecting to support those naturally dependent upon him, then the State might step in; but he denied that the Government had a right to interfere with any persons providing they did not make themselves amenable to the law by any overt acts. If they were to select all idlers, they might find as many in the vicinity of cafes or under the porticos of clubs as on the quays of the city. But he did not see why such words as these should be retained for the special purpose of rashly interfering with the freedom of action of any class of persons. John Stuart Mill, in his "Essay on Liberty," had clearly laid down his view upon this matter. He said—

> The liberty of the individual must be thus far limited; he must not make himself a nuisance to other people. But if he refrains from molesting others in what concerns them, and merely acts according to his own inclination and judgment in things which concern himself, the same reasons which show that opinion should be free, prove also that he should be allowed, without molestation, to carry his opinions into practice at his own cost. That mankind are not infallible; that their truths, for the most part, are only half-truths; that unity of opinion, unless resulting from the fullest and freest comparison of opposite opinions, is not desirable, and diversity not an evil, but a good, until mankind are much more capable than at present of recognising all sides of the truth,—are principles applicable to men's modes of action, not less than to their opinions. As it is useful that while mankind are imperfect there should be different opinions, so is it that there should be different experiments of living; that free scope should be given to varieties of character, short of injury to others; and that the worth of different modes of life should be proved practically when any one thinks fit to try them. It is desirable, in short, that in things which do not primarily concern others, individuality should assert itself.

He was sure the opinion of John Stuart Mill would always be received with respect, and he had shewn clearly that any such interference as the present law embodied was arbitrary and unjust, and unworthy the legislation of the present day. He (Mr. Hoskins) went on further, and he found in the present Act a penalty on any person found camping with the aborigines. Now this, he conceived, was a most oppressive and unjustifiable enactment. The law, moreover, in this respect was wholly inoperative. They knew, for instance, that many persons in the interior had aborigines in their service, as stockmen and hutkeepers and domestic servants; but yet any one found in the company of those aboriginals might, under the provisions of the present Act, be imprisoned for six months. It was evident, therefore, that the law was inoperative. But even with regard to aboriginals living in an uncivilised state, he (Mr. Hoskins) maintained that a man had a perfect right to camp or live with the blacks, to take up their mode of life if he chose, and that no one was justified in interfering with him for so doing, unless it were shown that by overt acts he was inciting the aborigines to crimes and offences against the well-being of society. He knew wealthy individuals up the country, squatters and others, who had gins living in their houses, and why should those persons not be made to suffer the penalty if the offence was so great. He would ask hon. members was it not high time that such an enactment was struck from the statute book? He hoped a law so odious in its provisions, and which could not be paralleled even in the mother country, with all its oppressive enactments, would not be suffered to remain in force any longer. He had mentioned the material objections to the existing Act. There were others, however, of a minor nature, that he would briefly refer to. In the third clause, for instance, he proposed to omit the penalty respecting idleness, leaving the punishment to fall only on disorderly conduct, proved to have been committed. In the fifth clause the penalty for using language calculated to provoke a breach of the peace was £5, or three months' imprisonment; but he proposed to make it one month, as more in keeping with the amount of the fine. In the seventh and eighth clauses, he also proposed to introduce amendments to do away with the arbitrary and unjust nature of the punishments provided, and to give an extension of the period within which appeals might be made. There was another clause, the 9th, which was most cruel and despotic in its nature. This clause provided that on the conviction of a prisoner under the Act, any property he had should be confiscated. Such a provision was totally opposed to the spirit of modern English legislation, and would tend, instead of reforming men, to create criminals by the score. In England, the prisoner received an allowance in proportion to the period of his servitude, so that on completing his sentence, he had something to assist himself; but the operation of our present vagrant law was quite different. It took from the man his own property, and turned him adrift penniless and degraded. Again, there was another clause in this Vagrant Act, and he must express his great surprise that any Legislature could have consented to such a provision. It appeared to be made with the intention of preventing persons, who had become amenable to the decisions of magistrates, from appealing against them. The 7th clause provided, that if any person made an appeal to the Court of Quarter Sessions, and lost it, he should be amerced with treble costs. Now, he thought that if the Judges decided that the appeals of these persons were trivial or groundless, it was quite sufficient punishment to make them pay the costs. The 18th clause provided, that every action brought by persons aggrieved by the decision of the magistrates should be commenced within three months after the giving of such decision. He thought this time was too short, especially for persons in the interior of the country, who were generally the most aggrieved by the arbitrary provisions of this law, and where they were not so well protected as those in the cities by a vigilant Press. Besides, in some districts of the colony, Courts of Quarter Sessions met only once in six months, and if a person was compelled to initiate an action within three months, it might occasion great hardship and inconvenience, if he would not be practically precluded from entering an action at all. He thought, therefore, the time should be extended. These were the material alterations in the bill he intended to propose. Some honorable members might not consider the amendments as sufficiently sweeping, but he had doubts about going further, lest he might be met with the remark that he wished all the vagabonds and scoundrels of the country to prey upon society. In anticipation of this he might observe that he was quite willing to accept any other amendments than those he intended himself to propose. He believed that punishments were provided for offences under the vagrant law that ought not to be retained, and which he had not interfered with; but he did not think that hon. members could consider that this was a tenable ground for the objection to the present bill, that it did not go far enough. Again, it might be considered that this bill was one that ought to have been introduced by the Government, but he had previously ascertained that the Government did not intend to introduce such a measure. Feeling that the existing law was repugnant to the spirit of the times, that it entailed hardship and punishments inconsistent with justice, and that in general it was not in consonance with the opinions of the public at large, he moved the second reading of this bill for its amendment.

Mr. FORSTER moved the adjournment of the debate, on the ground that he, and, he believed, a large portion of the House, did not expect the discussion to come on this evening.

After some discussion, in which Mr. HOSKINS, Mr. ROTTON, Mr. ROBERTSON, Mr. HARPUR, Mr. LUCAS, Mr. DALGLEISH, and Mr. SUTHERLAND took part,

The debate was adjourned until this day week.

LAW OF PRIMOGENITURE.

Dr. LANG, in rising to move the second reading of the Law of Primogeniture Abolition Bill, said that the measure he had now the honour to submit to the House was one of the most important in the consequences it would entail that had ever been introduced into this House, calculated as it was to make so great, and as he conceived beneficial, an alteration in the existing law as regarded property. The measure was first introduced to the House by Mr. Speaker, before he had the honour of being raised to the high position he now filled; and he (Dr. L.) was therefore fearful that the advocacy of the measure would be imperilled by its now being entrusted to other and less able hands. The law of descent and inheritance had varied considerably in different countries, and at different times in the same country. The earliest phase of this law seemed to have been derived from the ancient patriarchs, who gave to the eldest son a double portion of the inheritance, excluding the daughters from any share whatever of the property of the deceased parent. In those days the female portion of a family seemed to have been regarded as nothing more than chattel property, and the means of increasing the wealth of the parent. The operation of the Jewish law seemed to be based on this custom of the patriarchs, giving a double portion to the eldest son, and excluding the daughters from any participation in the property. In the event of there being no son, however, the daughters were allowed to inherit the property of their deceased parent, the law being that it should be divided equally amongst them, provided they married in their own tribe—the object being that the wealth of the individual should not pass out of the tribe. The law amongst the Athenians was precisely the same as that amongst the Jews. The old Roman law of the twelve tables admitted the sons and daughters of a deceased parent to share equally and alike; but there was a subsequent modification in regard to females. At length, however, the 118th Novellæ of Justinian admitted males and females upon the same terms, to an equal share in the property of a deceased parent. This system was universal under the Roman law in Europe, but they all knew that that law was subverted after the fall of the Roman empire, and the irruption of barbarous nations. At a subsequent period, the feudal system was generally adopted in those parts where the Roman law had been in force—a system under which military service was due from the head of every family to his immediate lord, and from that lord again to the sovereign. The holding of land was, during those ages, almost universally connected with certain acts of military service due to the lord paramount, and that connection was sustained for a great length of time, until the exigencies of the age at last demanded a material modification of that system. In this state of things, the service that could be performed by the male sex naturally gave that sex a preponderating weight in the social scale, the eldest son also taking a prominent position in consequence. In ancient Jewry, a very different state of affairs prevailed, one person in every fifty of the population being there a proprietor of land. The beautiful system which there obtained provided for a comparative equalisation of property unknown to most modern nations where the accumulation of landed property in the hands of a few involved thousands in great poverty. No doubt indirect advantages were derivable to some few from the system of primogeniture in the mother country. There it raised up lordly families to an unduly exalted position, but, at the same time, produced results that were lamentable to the many. It was their duty as legislators to see that no such law was here suffered to remain in force. He had said that the law of primogeniture was one which at the time of the feudal system prevailed over all Europe. It did so generally prevail, but there were exceptional cases even then. In Kent, for example, the prevalence of feudal institutions never did away with the earlier and more natural system. There property was always divided equally amongst a man's children without distinction of age or sex—an arrangement known as the custom of gavelkind. He had never heard of any calamitous results from the establishment of the law of gavelkind in ages past. He believed the people of Kent were as well doing under their peculiar law of inheritance as those of any other part of her Majesty's dominions. The existence of this remarkable exception was in fact somewhat similar to the existence of a primitive formation in geology in the midst of a region of far later origin. In France, under the old regime, the law of inheritance was very different in the different provinces in which that empire was at length consolidated. He believed that the abolition of the law of primogeniture in France, and the superinducing of the present system, had produced a vast amount of comfort and happiness among the people of that country. Notwithstanding all the evils of the first revolution, the good which resulted from this change of the law immensely preponderated over the evil. Hon. members might be guided somewhat in their legislation on this subject by the practice of other British colonies or states that had arisen from the condition of British colonies in times past. The law of primogeniture was extended with the other laws of England to the British possessions in America in the olden time; but from time to time the wisdom of the legislators of the different colonies—and afterwards States—determined that that law should be abolished. It was abolished in the State of Rhode Island in the year 1770. In the States of New York, New Georgia, Virginia, and the two Carolinas and Georgia, the old system obtained until the establishment of the freedom and independence of the American colonies. This law, however, had been abolished in the State of Maryland so early as the year 1715. In the States of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Delaware, the eldest son, in accordance with the patriarchal and mosaic systems, had a double portion of the inheritance, and this system subsisted till 1792, when the present law in America was established in those States—giving males and females equal claims to the inheritance of their parents. In Pennsylvania the law of primogeniture was repealed in 1683, but the practice continued of giving the eldest son a double portion. In process of time, however, and at a comparatively early period in the history of British colonies—the United States, as an individual nation, abolished the law of primogeniture over the whole extent of the Republic, so that in the words of Chancellor Kent—"in these United States the English common law of descent in its most essential features has been universally rejected, and each State has established a law of descent for itself." In Norway the law of primogeniture had never obtained. In Denmark and Sweden it had obtained, but in Denmark, about 1769, a change was introduced into the system by which the claims of the eldest son were very much curtailed as compared with the system previously in operation. The law had continued to a certain extent, however, among the aristocracy, to perpetuate the order of nobles; but throughout the country generally its existence was an exception, and it extended only to one-half of the estate. In Spain, also, the same state of things existed—the law of primogeniture being virtually abolished, though continued in the entail in the case of nobles, as in Denmark. With the precedent afforded in the case of our kinsmen in America, he (Dr. Lang) submitted they were bound to believe in the benefit that would follow to the land we live in from a similar abolition being carried out here—and he for his own part, felt it would result in a great amount of benefit. He had gone carefully over the evidence taken on this important subject by a select committee of the House some years since, and he was pleased to find that the great bulk of the witnesses examined were favourable to a repeal of the law. The only witnesses, indeed, who took the opposite view, were the present Chief Justice and the hon. Mr. Norton, who thought this law was necessary to the creation in this country of an aristocratical class, as in the mother country. But he (Dr. Lang) dissented entirely from the view of those gentlemen. It was the natural order of things that in every country an aristocracy should exist, whether of talent, wealth, or landed property, and there was no necessity whatever for any State interfering to raise up that which was in itself inevitable. One main object of the Mosaic subdivision was to prevent the accumulation of property in such enormous masses as it was held in England, thereby reducing to poverty and comparative bondage, a large proportion of the general population of the country. There were, no doubt, advantages pertaining to the system, but these advantages were confined to a few, while the ablest writers admitted that in Norway, Denmark, and other countries where primogeniture was abolished, the general population obtained to a state of comfort, independence, and self-respect, that was unknown to the general population of our fatherland. The great father of political economy, Adam Smith, was entirely in favour of abolishing the law, and the eminent French writer, the Marquis of Granier, who had edited a translation of his work, also admitted the great justice of such an alteration of the law. D'Holstein, another competent authority, was equally strong in favour of its abolition. He considered the equal division of estates much more favourable to the wealth and happiness of society than the opposite system. He (Dr. Lang) therefore conceived that the fears entertained by certain parties whose ideas were borrowed from the system in the mother country were altogether unreasonable and unfounded—that the introduction of the system now prevalent in America (the abolition of the law of primogeniture and the granting of equal claims to all the descendants of any proprietor in the direct line, male and female) would lead to the division and subdivision of property ad infinitum. It stopped at a certain point, and the claims under the law, in the event of a deceased parent, were settled in a way that did not leave the property divided into lots valueless to any. The main principle of this bill, of which he had the honour of moving the second reading, was to abolish the law of primogeniture in regard to intestate estates; it did not propose to deal with the power or will of the proprietor to make such distribution of his property as it was open for him to do under the existing law. His right in this respect remained exactly as at present; but in all cases in which the proprietor died intestate, the object of this bill was to make an equal division of his property, real and personal, among all his children. Surely the principle which in this change of system it was proposed to introduce recommended itself to the natural feelings and justice of all mankind. The reason for giving the preference to the eldest son, which was so strong in feudal times, was that it was necessary for the lord paramount to be a powerful warrior, with a large following at his command. But that necessity had now passed away. He did not think it requisite that he should go into the clauses of this bill, but he might state that a large amount of valuable information upon the subject could be found in the proceedings of a select committee appointed by the Legislative Council some time ago to inquire into it. He felt confident that the change would be most beneficial throughout this territory, that it would issue in the establishment of a social system much more conducive to the comfort and happiness of the community than the one under which we now lived. He had heard of cases of great injustice being done to the younger members of families by the eldest son in a case of intestacy coming in and seizing the whole estate. This might be done under the present law, and the sooner we stopped such a system, so much the better would it be for the welfare of the whole community.

Mr. PIDDINGTON intended to support the second reading of this measure. He was one of the members of the select committee referred to by the hon. and rev. member, and he could bear testimony that the preponderance of evidence was in favour of the principle contained in this bill. He viewed it simply as a measure to supply a neglect on the part of the father of a family or individual who died leaving freehold property without will. No doubt the law in France was much more arbitrary than was necessary or desirable. This bill in no way interfered with the rights of property, it merely provided that when a person died intestate, his property should be equally divided among his children. By this means they would be preventing the great evil that arose from the eldest son taking up the whole estate, and leaving perhaps eight or nine of the younger children without provision. It was in order to cure cases of extreme hardship that the bill proposed a similar law in regard to real as was in force in regard to personal property. Mr. Lock King, an eminent member of the British Parliament, had attempted to pass a bill on this subject; and though he had not been successful in carrying his bill through the Commons, he had awakened attention to the injustice of the custom, and it was to be hoped that in a short time it would be abolished. Persons of high repute, and lawyers of high character had held and shewn that the law worked with great injustice. Mr. Locke King had also quoted cases of considerable hardship and injustice, shewing how ill the law had worked. No one had complained of the law in regard to personal estate, because it was a natural law and operated naturally; but the law in case of real estate was frequently complained of because of its partial and unnatural operation. The bill now before the House provided a remedy for this grievance. The greatest objection to the bill was one stated before the select committee by his Honor the Chief Justice. It was purely of a practical character, in connection with providing for the sale of real property in order to divide the proceeds. From the very nature of freehold estate it could not be so easily sold and divided as money could be; and this difficulty of sale was the objection that struck his Honor. This, however, in his mind, did not constitute a sufficient reason for continuing an injustice that was so much complained of. In the case of freehold, with a manor attached to it, it might be difficult to divide it in such a way as to prevent litigation without selling it; but even though it were so, no comparison could be drawn between the inconvenience arising from these difficulties and the absolute injustice that was the consequence of the existing system. It was because he did not think that this bill trenched upon the rights of private property that he supported it. The foundation of the large landed properties of England was not based upon the law of primogeniture, as erroneously stated by the hon. and rev. member for Sydney West; but the real cause was the natural desire existing in men's minds to found a family. It was the law of settlement, then, that was the true key to the possession of the large properties held in England. That law enabled the first purchaser of one estate to entail it for two generations, and this was the secret of the large estates held by individuals in the United Kingdom. They could not get at the law of settlement, neither did the bill attempt it. If it did he should oppose it; and it was because it did not interfere in any way with the rights of property that he gave it his support.

Mr. FORSTER moved the adjournment of the debate, being in precisely the same position in regard to this bill, that he had been in with respect to the last one.

After some discussion, the adjournment was carried on division by a majority of 15 to 11.

Dr. LANG moved that the resumption of the debate stand an order of the day for this day week.

Mr. PIDDINGTON moved as an amendment that it stand an order of the day for this day month.

Mr. SUTHERLAND supported the adjournment of the debate for a month. There was other business of equal importance to come on that day week. If hon. members were not prepared to go on with the debate he could not see why it could not be still further postponed.

Mr. HAY saw nothing unusual in the adjournment asked for. The debate was one which had come on unexpectedly. The members could not have supposed that the consideration in committee of the Matrimonial Causes Bill would have come to such an abrupt termination.

Mr. DALGLEISH supported the adjournment of the debate for a week only.

The question was then put on the amendment—adjournment of the debate for one month. It was negatived by a majority of 20 to 6, the adjournment of the debate for a week being agreed to without division.

PRODUCTION OF PAPERS.

Mr. SPEAKER informed the House that application had been made to him for the Clerk of the Assembly to attend at the Supreme Court to give evidence and produce papers in the case of Buchanan against Fairfax.

Leave was given to the Clerk to attend accordingly.

The House was counted out at a quarter to eight o'clock, and stood adjourned until Tuesday next at three o'clock p.m.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT.—Friday.

In Equity.

Before the Primary Judge.

EX PARTE BRADLEY AND ANOTHER.

This was an application by the managers, under an order by the Court of Chancery, of certain properties at Hunter River, for the payment to them, out of Court, of the sum of £438 awarded as compensation under the Minmi and Hexham Railway Act.

Mr. Gordon appeared in support of the application; Mr. Owen appeared for the proprietors of the railway, Messrs. J. and A. Brown; and Mr. Milford appeared for a person who was beneficially interested as mortgagor.

The only question was whether the costs of the latter were to be paid by the respondents.

His Honor held that the managers being absolutely entitled to receive the money, there was no necessity for any other party to appear or to have notice. He, therefore, declined to make any order as to costs.

MOORE AND OTHERS V. ATTORNEY-GENERAL AND OTHERS.

The argument in this case was resumed, and Mr. Martin, Q.C., having been heard for the respondents, the hearing was further adjourned until Tuesday next.

INSOLVENCY COURT.

Thursday.

Before the Chief Commissioner.

Thomas Rice was charged with having committed the crime of fraudulent insolvency, in having, both before and after his insolvency, embezzled, concealed, retained, or removed portions of his estate. Mr. Darley, instructed by Messrs. Holdsworth and Garrick, conducted the prosecution for the official assignee—Mr. Johnson appearing for the defendant. Two witnesses were examined, and the proceedings adjourned until the 7th.

On the motion of Mr. Sempill, official assignee, the plans of distribution in the undermentioned estates were ordered:—

Henry Gershon, 3s. 8½d. in the pound on concurrent claims, and preferent in full.

James Hubert Gannon, 4s. 8 15-16d. in the pound, ditto.

John Inches, 20s. in the pound, and a balance of £95 13s. 1d.

Friday.

In the estate of Jesse Tout, a second meeting. Four debts were proved. Insolvent was not present.

In the estate of Edmond Goggin, a third meeting. Twenty-four debts were proved. The official assignee having read his report, he was directed to allow the insolvent to retain his household furniture, wearing apparel, and jewellery, together with the sum of £10.

In the estate of George Richardson, a third meeting; postponed until the 14th.

In the estate of Alexander Mallock, a third meeting. One debt was proved, and the official assignee reported. Insolvent was allowed his furniture, on condition that he settles the claim of a preferential creditor for one year's wages.

In the estate of Charles J. Hornby, a single meeting. One debt was proved, and insolvent was examined as to the cause of his insolvency. Insolvent was allowed his household furniture.

In the estate of George Trimble, a single meeting. No creditor attended. Insolvent was allowed his furniture and wearing apparel, on payment of the public fees.

In the estate of Woollier and Roddy, a motion was made under the 25th Victoria, No. 8, sec. 7, by a number of creditors, for an order refusing to confirm the sale of certain assets to a creditor who had tendered for them. Mr. Ashdown, and two other creditors, stated their objection to the sale, and the purchasing creditor having also been heard, Mr. Stephen addressed the Court on behalf of the official assignee. His Honor said that if the alleged sale fell within the meaning of the terms "sale by private contract," it was plain that the transaction was not complete until confirmed by him. He had not done so, nor had application for that purpose been made to him; and, as neither the advertisement inviting tenders nor the tender now objected to had been produced, he directed the motion to stand over until Monday morning. His Honor said that, in a case like the present (supposing the sale was "by private contract"), two important principles were involved: first, that assets of an insolvent estate are not to be sacrificed by being sold at a gross under-value (as the dissentient creditors allege is sought to be done in this instance); and secondly, that a tender, made bona fide, after public advertisement, and reasonable in itself, should be confirmed as of right, unless some strong reason to the contrary be shewn.

In the estate of James Menzies, an adjourned examination. Insolvent was further examined by Mr. Faucett, on behalf of the Bank of Australasia, Mr. Garrick cross-examining for insolvent.

Before the Registrar.

In the estate of John Gardiner, a special meeting. Three debts were proved.

Tuesday, August 5.—Edward Thornton Gilbert, Thomas Wythes, the younger, Edwin Chritchly Williams, John Woolley, James M'Mulkin, John Mobbs, Henry Doyle, Thomas Wooler, Henry Twist, James Thompson.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

Friday.

Before the Police Magistrate and Mr. Smithers.

Four persons, all females, were sentenced to pay a fine of 10s. each, or to be imprisoned forty-eight hours, for being drunk, and conducting themselves in a riotous manner in the public streets. Four other persons, two males and two females, were ordered to pay a fine of 20s. each, with the alternative of imprisonment from three to seven days. One idle and disorderly character was sent to gaol for one month.

Edward Farrington was fined 20s. and costs, for a breach of the Licensing Act, namely, for purchasing brandy at an hour when the house at which he purchased it ought, by law, to have been closed. Henry Shepherd, licensed publican, of Riley-street, was similarly dealt with for selling brandy to the defendant in the previous case at an illegal hour.

Ehud Gale, was prosecuted on the information of inspector Oatley, for scalding swine within three miles of the city, and was ordered to pay a fine of 10s. with professional costs and costs of Court.

Terence Callaghan, for keeping a ferocious dog, was ordered to pay the costs of Court.

George Brooks, a cab driver, recovered from Michael Moss, cab proprietor and employer of the former, the sum of 15s. due to him as wages. It appeared that Moss had stopped the wages of complainant on account of some damage done to the vehicle driven by the latter. Their Worships informed Moss that he had his remedy in the District Court.

The hearing of a case of assault by a woman with a gin bottle, on a man, both residents of Durand's-alley, was commenced, but remanded for the evidence of the prosecutor, he not being in a fit state to give evidence.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Friday.

Before the Water Police Magistrate, Mr. E. W. Cameron and Mr. J. I. Kettle.

Ann M'Pherson was fined 20s., or to be imprisoned for one week, on conviction of having used obscene language in Phillip-street.

James Smith, master of the schooner Elizabeth, appeared to answer the complaint of James Griffin, who, for services as mate of that vessel, sought to recover the sum of £10 7s. for wages. The only matter in dispute was whether complainant was to submit to a deduction of £2 10s., in respect of a camp oven which had fallen overboard from a boat into which it was being lowered, when the vessel lay at the bar of the Clarence River. It appeared that complainant, on giving a receipt for a portion of his wages, admitted the right to deduct this amount from the balance remaining. The Bench ordered the payment of £4 18s. 8d., being the balance due after deduction for camp oven and moneys received.

Robert Smith, for a common assault upon George Helmencks, boatswain of the Bethiah Jewett, whilst at sea, was fined 10s. with costs.

Hill's Orangery.—We have just heard that this beautiful orangery has changed hands, and that Mr. W. H. M'Keown is the purchaser.

Removal of the Military from Burrangong.—The Goulburn Herald states that the military force hitherto stationed at Burrangong, are under immediate orders for Sydney.

Quartz Crushing.—The Singleton Times states that Mr. W. R. Collet started on Monday with a strong body of men under his charge to work the quartz reefs at the Denison diggings. From the experience of the parties concerned there is every reason to anticipate a thorough earnest trial of the auriferous nature of the deposits.

The Opera.—The production of English opera continues to be attended with the most undoubted success—crowded and fashionable audiences testifying nightly to the excellent performances of Mr. Lyster's company, and the generally perfect style in which the operas are presented to the public. Balfe's ever-favourite composition, "The Bohemian Girl," was produced for the second time on Thursday evening, and attracted one of the best houses of the season, every part being filled. The cast was a powerful one, including Mdlle. Durand as Arline, Mdlle. Hodson as the Gipsy Queen, Mr. Squires as Thaddeus, Mr. Wharton as Count Arnheim, Mr. Farquharson as Devilshoof, and Mr. Trevor as Florenstein. With such a combination of talent and the assistance of a well drilled chorus and efficient orchestra, we need scarcely say that every justice was done to the work of the composer. Madame Durand was in excellent voice, and received a unanimous encore in the well-known song "I dream't I dwelt in marble halls," which she rendered with considerable effect. An introductory solo on the flute by Herr Siede, to the beautiful song "The heart bowed down," was another great feature of the opera, and brought down repeated rounds of applause from the masterly style in which it was executed. Farquharson, as the sun-browned gipsy leader, looked the character, and sung with all that force and abandon which is peculiar to him. Of Mr. Wharton, we need only say that he gains in public favour on each successive appearance, while Mdlle. Hodson has already made good her reputation as an accomplished artiste. Taken altogether, the opera we can safely say has rarely been produced with greater effect than on Thursday evening last. Last night Wallace's earliest work, "Maritana" was performed, but did not go so smoothly as the other operas. Indeed, the transpositions and alterations are not by any means judicious—and nothing can justify the giving to Miss Hodson the song, "In Happy Moments," written for the basso; and so the audience seemed to think, as it was very coldly received. Artistes not content with the music written to the parts they have to sustain are, even if they possess superior talents, quite unfit for their profession,—and the gravedigger in Hamlet might, with equal justice, be made the exponent of passages intended for, and applicable only to, the peculiar temperament of the Prince of Denmark. Maritana will be repeated this evening.

The Royal Lyceum Theatre.—On Monday evening last, a deeply interesting drama entitled Rangatira Wahena was produced at this theatre in the presence of a crowded audience,—by whom it was received with yet greater favour than its successful predecessor, the Pakeha Maori, from the pen of the same author. As a piece of dramatic composition the Maori Queen is decidedly superior to "Whakeau," the plot being admirably contrived for the development of the powers of the principal members of the company,—the language chaste and powerful, and the situations extremely picturesque and effective. It has since been played to full houses every evening, and will be presented again to-night. The character of the Maori Queen is brilliantly sustained by Miss Fanny Morgan, whose realisation of the impetuous affection and angry passions of a half civilised savage is precisely what might have been anticipated by those who have seen her impersonation of the Indian Girl in Jibbenainosay, or Nick of the Woods. The role of the Rangatira Wahena is, however, a far more important part. Mr. Barry's fine acting, as the Æneas of the piece, redeems from dislike the vacillation of the weak-minded but not altogether evil Edward Dawson, to whom the proud Island Princess becomes a victim. The comedy parts also are excellent, and afford considerable amusement in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Younge, and Mr. Samuel Howard. The scenes between the expatriated cockney Jimmy Jones (Mr. Frederick Younge), and Crammy (Mr. Samuel Howard), elicit loud bursts of merriment, and are evidently more and more keenly relished every evening. The story of the drama is simple enough. An Englishman escaped from shipwreck, has, according to Maori laws and customs, married a Maori princess, named Hino Matiro (Miss Fanny Morgan), with whom he lives happily until made discontented by a miserable white man named Jimmy Jones, who persuades him to leave his native wife and go with him to the next European settlement. The conference between the two is overheard by Hino Matiro whose love and pride are effectually aroused, and give rise to a remarkably effective scene in which the despair and rage of the Maori Queen are very finely represented by Miss Morgan. The recreant husband departs for the settlement with his associate, and, arrived there, marries a white woman. Hino rejoins her tribe and exhorts them to take vengeance upon her betrayer, in an eloquent speech. They determine to go on the war path, and occasion is thus given for the introduction of the Maori warriors, who engage in the native game of "ti," and in wrestling matches, the curtain of the first act falling on their terrible war dance. The second act shews the vengeance of the Maoris in its accomplishment, and is full of telling action; the amusing cockney who has come to grief—the stealthy approach of the Maoris to the settlement—the clever acting of the native Timoti, who steals a part of the white man's dress to curse him by—and the noble interposition of the injured girl, who saves the sleeping traitor at the very last moment,—all successively rivet the attention of the house. Having saved the man she loves from the fate he has so richly merited, Hino departs with her tribe to her own native forests, where she is eventually wounded in a battle with some neighbouring tribe. She sends for Edward Dawson and her rival, his wife, takes leave of both in a scene of much pathos and beauty, and dies, forgiving her faithless husband. Such is a rough outline of this very pleasing drama, in which much new matter illustrating Maori manners and customs has been interwoven by the author. The spirited burlesque of Lalla Rookh has been played, with new dresses and scenery, &c., every night this week as an after-piece. It still remains a great favourite; but in the opinion of many playgoers its attractions are not equal to those of the Three Kings—the middle and latter portions of which are equal to anything of the kind ever produced on the Sydney stage.

CORONER'S ENQUIRY.—The city coroner held an enquiry at his office, yesterday, touching the death of a man named Robert Hannigan, aged forty-five years. The deceased, it appeared, was a drayman, residing at Redfern. On Saturday, 26th ultimo, he was riding along Botany Road on his dray, drawn by two horses, when the leading horse, over which he had no control, having no reins attached to him, took fright at a horse lying sick and groaning by the side of the road with a crowd of people looking at him. Both horses ran off at the top of their speed, and brought the dray into violent contact with another dray, when Hannigan, who was sitting on a board placed across the dray, lost his balance and fell off. Unfortunately he was unable to grasp hold of anything to save himself, and consequently rolled over in the street, the heavy fall producing a compound fracture of his left arm. He was taken up by some persons who were passing at the time, and conveyed to the Infirmary, where he was put under the care of Dr. Nathan. In a short time after his admission into that establishment, mortification of the injured arm ensued, and the sufferer expired on Thursday night last. The finding of the coroner was in accordance with the above facts. He did not consider it necessary to hold an inquest.

SUSPECTED MURDER.—The Otago Daily Times of the 18th ultimo, reports that a body has been found in the Molyneaux, which there is reason to suppose is that of a man named Wilson, who disappeared in a most mysterious manner nearly eight weeks since. The only other particulars to hand are, that the head and face bear traces of being much cut about. Supposing this to be Andrew Wilson, the annals of crime scarcely supply an instance of a murder more opportunely or cleverly found out. The person suspected of the murder, was on the eve of escape, in a few hours he would have sailed in the Gothenburg, and once landed in Melbourne, it would have been almost impossible to have hunted him up. About two months ago Wilson left Dunedin, for the purpose of going to the Molyneux district to select land. Fortunately, he left a friend behind him, in Mr. Richard Henry Larey, who, not hearing anything of him for five weeks, started on his track. With praiseworthy zeal and ingenuity, he traced him from Warepa to the Molyneaux Ferry, where he heard of him, in company with a man named Fratson. He here, very wisely, placed the case in the hands of the police, who at once set themselves on Fratson's track, and succeeded in arresting him just as he was about to leave the colony. A remand was obtained and active measures were commenced for following up the affair. Up to this time it should be remembered, the police had nothing to work upon but the strong belief of Mr. Larey, that his friend would not absent himself without sending him word. Still, this coupled with the suspicious circumstances of Fratson's sudden departure, and Mrs. Fratson's allegations that she had never seen the missing man, whereas there was good reason to suppose he had been at her cottage, determined the police in the belief that a murder had been committed. Detective Tuckwell was despatched to the spot, where he remained for six days, and succeeded in finding a hat believed to belong to the missing man, which has marks of having been cut with some sharp instrument, such as an axe. He also elicited that on the night when Wilson left the ferry with Fratson to go to the latter's hut, he (Fratson) had borrowed an axe from a neighbour which he had never returned. He also learned that, on the same evening, Mrs. Fratson had gone to a neighbouring store, and said she wanted something nice for supper, as a stranger was at home. On board the Gottenburg, Mrs. Fratson denied having ever seen the missing man. Meanwhile the Molyneux was dragged, and yesterday information came in of the finding of a body believed to be the one sought after. Too much credit cannot be given to the police for the patient and intelligent care with which they have traced out this too probable deed of crime. If Wilson were murdered, as suspected, the murder was one which would seem to defy detection. A lonely man, a perfect stranger in the locality, his friends only vaguely guessing his whereabouts, it might have seemed, as the body was consigned, heavily weighted, to the swollen waters of the Molyneux, that man's vengeance would sleep on the deed; that detection was impossible. Fratson has been brought up and formally charged with the murder. He was remanded until after the inquest.

THE CATTLE DISEASE PREVENTION ACT.—During the past week Mr. Kennett, veterinary surgeon and inspector under the Cattle Disease Prevention Act, inspected the cattle of Mr. Thomas Whiteman, of Tarradale near Collector, where he found one animal infected with pleuro-pneumonia, and had it destroyed. Previous to this five of Mr. Whiteman's bullocks had died and been burned. Mr. Kennett proceeded to Mr. John Maddon's, at Rockfield, near Gunning, where also he found one diseased animal, which was destroyed. Ten head had previously died; they were workers and had lately been on a trip to Gundagai. Mr. Kennett is now about to proceed to Windelima for the purpose of inspecting an animal belonging to Mrs. Cartwright, which is supposed to be diseased.—Goulburn Herald.

ST. LEONARDS SCHOOL OF ARTS.—The fifth half-yearly meeting of the School of Arts was held in the hall of the institution, on Monday evening last. The president, Mr. E. M. Sayers, having been called to the chair, read the advertisement convening the meeting. Mr. William Tunks, the honorary secretary, then read the minutes of the previous annual meeting, and of the special meeting held on 31st March, for the purpose of confirming certain alterations in the rules, which had been passed at the annual meeting. Confirmed. He afterwards read the fifth half-yearly report of the committee, which stated that on a "review of the progress of the institution the committee were free to admit that its objects have been but in a small degree realised, although many gentlemen had subscribed their money, and made donations of books, &c., and the Government have supplemented such subscriptions, and other income, by several votes; and have also granted the ground on which the present building is erected. The reason of this apparent want of success the committee believe is that the institution offers but slender inducement at present to persons to become members, or continue members, after they have joined, as nearly the whole income up to this time has been expended on the building and working expenses." The committee have thus not had funds hitherto to devote to the special object of the Institution, viz., to be an instrument of usefulness to the community. The treasurer's account showed a balance to the credit of the Institution, on June 30th last, of £126 17s. 11d. This, with other moneys, at their disposal, will enable the committee to claim the whole £200 voted during last session of Parliament; and these sums in the aggregate will suffice to erect the proposed reading-room and library. Popular lectures had been delivered by Captain Severn, Dr. Berncastle, and Mr. E. C. Cracknell. The committee are of opinion that when the institution affords the necessary accommodation, which they earnestly hope will be the case before the next annual meeting, there will be sufficient funds to enable them to engage the services of one or more professional lecturers, to deliver regular courses on useful subjects. This the committee think would be very expedient, and will go far to realise the objects of the institution. The report farther stated that the public of the North Shore had been very liberal in supporting the institution, especially as up to the present time they have received comparatively little benefit from it, and that the time has arrived when the institution exhibits the nucleus of an establishment that will, it is hoped, become what its founders intended, a permanent and great good to the inhabitants. The adoption of the report being moved briefly from the chair, and seconded, was carried unanimously. A special vote of thanks to Mr. Tunks, to whose exertions it was admitted the rapidly increasing prosperity of the institution was due, was carried by acclamation. In the course of a short reply he said that, being fortunate enough to have some spare time at his disposal, he hoped to continue to devote it to the service of the School of Arts and to the benefit of the district, so long as they were acceptable. A vote of thanks to Mr. Sayers as president, as well as for his conduct in the chair, terminated the proceedings.

SPORTSMEN, Volunteers, and others, are reminded that R. Murie will sell, this day, at 11 o'clock, at his new rooms, a valuable collection of guns, pistols, jewellery, &c., the property of an officer retiring from service.—ADV.

WE are requested by Messrs. Walter Bradley and Co, to direct special attention to their sales, this day, of elegant drawing-room furniture, useful household furniture, six first-class pianofortes, hooded phaeton, and dogcart; also, a Milner's fire-proof safe, and sundries, in the insolvent estate of Mr. James Menzies, and a magnificent double gun, photographic apparatus, walking sticks, paper hangings, &c. Commencing at 11 o'clock sharp.—ADV.

STATE-AID TO RELIGION.

TO THE LORD BISHOP OF NEWCASTLE.

(Per favour of the Sydney Morning Herald.)

MY LORD,—In the Herald of the 24th instant appears a letter of your Lordship on the subject of State-aid to Religion, which, as coming from so estimable a prelate as yourself, has no doubt been extensively read, and will influence the minds of many readers who would be inaccessible to conviction from any other quarter. You arrive at the conclusion that State-aid is no longer tenable, because the mode in which the grant is distributed is highly unjust to the clergy in the remoter districts of the colony. It is clear from your letter that if the present grant could be supplemented so as to afford relief to this portion of the clergy, you would decidedly rather that State-aid were continued. Indeed you say that "there is no objection in principle to State-aid; that the four Christian denominations aided by the State in this colony do not follow different religions, but the same, the one Gospel of Christ. They all agree in their belief of the great body of Christian truth, and they differ on points respecting which it would be the greatest presumption for any one religious body to hold that it was in every respect exclusively right." These are your words.

To an amiable mind it is always more pleasing to look at those cardinal truths in which the various Christian sects agree than at those points in which they so considerably vary; but there are times when truth imposes upon us the painful necessity of bringing those differences forward, and I conceive that at the present time such an obligation lies on me. To my mind, the very strongest objection against the present system of State-aid is, that religious opinions of the most antagonistic character meet with equal support from the State. Let us take, as instances, the Church of Rome and the Church of England. You, as a Bishop of the latter, are bound in the most solemn manner to recognise her Articles and her Liturgy as true. Let me then ask you to compare the sentiments you have expressed in the letter under allusion with the teaching of that Church. The 22nd Article is as follows—"The Romish doctrine concerning Purgatory, Pardons, Worshipping and Adoration as well of Images as of Reliques, and also Invocation of Saints, is a fond thing mainly invented, and grounded upon no warranty of Scripture, but is rather repugnant to the Word of God." The 31st Article says—"The offering of Christ once made is that perfect redemption, propitiation, and satisfaction for all the sins of the whole world, both original and actual; and there is none other satisfaction for sin, but that alone. Wherefore, the sacrifice of masses in the which it was commonly said, that the priest did offer Christ for the quick and the dead, to have remission of pain or guilt, were blasphemous fables and dangerous deceits." In the rubric at the end of the Communion Service are these words, "the Sacramental bread and wine remain still in their natural substances, and therefore may not be adored, for that were idolatry to be abhorred of all faithful Christians." In your letter you make not the very slightest allusion to these dogmas of the Church of Rome, which are at the very basis of her existence as a distinct Church, which were the most potent causes of that great revolution whence issued the Church of England. You really write as though no such gulf of doctrines utterly irreconcileable—nay, utterly repugnant to the teaching of the Church of England, had any existence. Firmly wedded as you are to the principle of State-aid to religion, and desirous of placing that system of it which exists in this colony at present in the most favourable light, you are guilty of a piece of special pleading and a suppression of truth which I grieve to witness in one whose many virtues I profoundly revere. My Lord, your own Church condemns in language stronger, and even less polite than the language (so severely censured by you) which was used at a late public meeting in Sydney, the doctrines and practices of a Church of which, through the fellowship of State-aid, you have become, to all intents and purposes, an advocate. Did that fellowship not exist, I am persuaded that no one would with more wisdom and more charity enforce the important doctrines conveyed in the Articles I have cited; but as long as this fellowship exists, your tongue will be palsied on these matters, you can never declare the whole counsel of God according to the faith of the Church of England.

With you I gladly believe that the Roman Catholic Church is in possession of much truth, but let us not forget that, according to the plainest teaching of the English Church, many of her doctrines are in the highest degree pernicious. To believe this is perfectly consistent with respect, esteem, love of the worthy members of that Church (and I value as dear friends many a member of it), but it is fatal to the relation to it which you now occupy, and attempt to justify.

I am, my Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient servant,
RATIO.

July 28.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Mr. Kerrison James' letter in this morning's Herald seems to demand a little explanation, and in order to elucidate the question at issue, I now feel myself compelled to advert to the main root of this unpleasant controversy, which I shall do as briefly as possible. He states that "I suppressed all allusion to the premonitory communications I received on this subject." To this I reply—that I did indeed suppress them, because any allusion to these communications necessitates a further exposure of the persecutions I endured in this matter; and I forbore as long as possible to expose them, for the sake of peace in the Church.

"The notifications" of the withdrawal of the portion of my salary which I received through the Bishop's office never were given, nor in any way hinted at, until after the appointment of the Rev. W. M. Cowper as Dean of St. Andrew's Cathedral and my protest against this appointment as illegal in itself and unjust towards me.

After I had, respectfully, pointed out to the Bishop that his letters patent, on which alone he relied for such appointment, convey no such authority; that the word Dean does not occur anywhere throughout the entire document, nor is the term deanery mentioned in it at all; and that, in fact, the bishops of the Church in England are never empowered to appoint deans to cathedrals; the Crown always reserving this prerogative to itself, then, for the first time, "the notifications" alluded to commenced. And, I may here be permitted to observe, that all my arguments on that subject have been since fully substantiated; that her Majesty the Queen neither delegated such authority to one of her subjects, nor has she in the present case confirmed or approved of the appointment in question; and that a parallel case has occurred in a neighbouring colony, wherein the Rev. Joseph Baly was appointed Dean of the Cathedral of Christ's Church at Colombo; and that, after this appointment had been accepted by Mr. Baly, and received by the members of the Church and the community generally as lawful and right, and after the so-called Dean had been solemnly inducted in the face of the Church to his assumed office, and was invested with the appendages of his pseudo-dignity, the case came incidentally before the Supreme Court, and the judgment of that Court declared "that the deanery, in fact, had no existence at all." And in order to settle the question finally for the colonial Church, the bench specifically added in the same judgment, "As Mr. Baly styles himself Dean of the Cathedral Church, we cannot allow it to remain on the files of this Court, without declaring from this bench that as far as the office of Dean is concerned, the whole proceeding from beginning to end, if worthy to be looked upon at all in a serious point of view, was a direct usurpation of the prerogative of the Crown." I cite the abovenamed judgment to show that my objections to the appointment of the Rev. W. M. Cowper as Dean of St. Andrew's Cathedral were founded in justice, in law, and in truth; and should have been received in the same Christian and gentlemanly spirit in which they were offered; but instead of this, they were met by a series of petty annoyances, directed in rapid succession from the Bishop's office against me; at one time asking me to produce and forward to the Bishop's secretary my license to St. Andrew's Church and Parish, on which subject alone—anything but an agreeable one to a licensed clergyman in the colonies—I have now four letters, written at the period to which I allude, lying before me again, assuming the form of a threat, or to use the secretary's expression, "notification" of the withdrawal of the portion of my salary of which the Bishop was trustee; until at last the crowning insult came, as described in my letter of the 30th ultimo; and inasmuch as I was unable to succumb to such an indignity, the threat was at length carried into effect, and the £25 which I had received in lieu of glebe for ten years, and which is a portion of my rightful salary as the minister of St. Andrew's, was retained, and has been withheld from me for two years and ten months.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
G. KING.

St. Andrew's Parsonage, August 1st.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—The following advertisement appeared in Bell's Life, of the 26th ultimo, and I have frequently noticed it in some of the country papers:—

"Sydney Eye Institution for the cure of diseases of the eye and ear. Patron—Sir John Young, Bart.; president—Sir Alfred Stephen; surgeon—Dr. Berncastle. Apply to Dr. Berncastle, surgeon, oculist, and aurist, from 9 to 11 or 2 to 3, No. 229, Macquarie-street."

As this institution is so often paraded before the public, I made an excursion to Macquarie-street to endeavour to find it. I could not discover any eye institution at No. 229; but at No. 226 I found the name of Dr. Berncastle on the door, and surgeon and accoucheur on a brass plate on an iron fence. My object in writing is to enquire where this eye institution is? Is it supported by voluntary subscriptions?—and if so, to what amount? Is it under the management of a committee?—if so, does the committee ever meet, and when did it meet last? These may be regarded as very impertinent questions by Dr. Berncastle, but I think the public have a right to have them answered—more particularly when this so-called institution, which, so far as I can learn, has no existence in fact, is shadowed forth under such exalted patronage as that of Sir John Young, and under the presidency of Sir Alfred Stephen. I await a reply with interest, and remain yours,

EYE-OPENER.

ANOTHER NUGGET FROM THE LITTLE RIVER.—Notwithstanding the recent depression of population at the Little River, a steady yield of gold, considering the number of hands employed, is maintained, and the intelligence reached town on Monday to the effect that a nugget of 24 ounces had been found on Fagan's Creek. This information has since been confirmed. Two nuggets have been found weighing respectively 27 and 9½ ounces, both of which were purchased by Mr. Breckenridge, of the Post Office Stores, Little River.—Braidwood Observer.

A fair amount of business has been transacted in the Share market this week, and prices of some securities have again advanced. There is still enquiry for the favourite stocks, but holders do not appear anxious to effect sales except at improved rates. The fluctuations that have taken place are as follows:—Bank of New South Wales shares are firm, and have improved 10s. per share. Australian Joint Stock Bank shares are slightly flatter, and since the meeting have been sold at a decline of 5s. per share. Steam shares are in request. The new shares of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company have been sold at an advance of 28s. per share on last sale, but there have been buyers within 10s. of this price for some time past. A small lot of the old shares were sold at 30 ex div., but there are new buyers at a much higher figure. General Assurance shares are firm at quotations. Pacific Fire and Marine Insurance shares have changed hands at 7s. 6d. per share premium. The committee appointed at the meeting of allottees in the Pacific Fire and Marine Insurance Company, on Monday last, have had several interviews with the directors, with respect to the preparation of the Deed of Settlement. The only alteration of any consequence that has been made in the deed, as the result of their conferences, has been to render retiring directors disqualified for one year for re-election. The deed will be ready for signature on the 8th instant, at which time the deposits will be payable; and it is intended to commence business in about a fortnight from this date. The company have taken a portion of Mr. Newton's new building, in New Pitt-street, the adjoining office to that of Messrs. Lyons, Stokes, and Co.

There has been very little business doing in our markets during the week; but as holders of goods are not forcing sales, prices of most articles are without any alteration. The fluctuations, consequently, have been so few and unimportant that it is quite unnecessary to give a full report. Flour is steady. Adelaide is quoted at £14 10s. to £15 10s., and Magarey's, and Hart's brands are worth the latter figure. Wheat, 6s. 3d. In liquids there has been very little doing. A few small lots of Martell's brandy have been sold at 13s. Geneva is not so firm, owing to the large quantity lately arrived. Teas are firmer, and sales of good congous have been made at full rates. Sugars are dull of sale, and prices nominal. Rice is firm, and is held for higher rates. Patna is quoted at £25 to £26 per ton. Coffee is also firm, and a superior sample of Manila has been sold at 10d. per lb., in bond. Medium quality, 9½d. per lb. In oilmen's stores, candles, salt, &c., &c., there is no alteration to notice.

On Wednesday, Messrs. L. E. Threlkeld and Co. held a large sale of groceries and oilmen's stores. There was a good attendance of the trade, who showed every inclination to bid freely. A considerable quantity of Mauritius and Java sugars were placed at a slight improvement on recent quotations, and several invoices of oilmen's stores ex Shand at full market rates. The same firm report having sold this day invoices of white lead, realising from £30 to £32 5s. per ton, together with copper and wire nails, and other hardware at satisfactory prices.

At Messrs. W. Dean and Co.'s produce sale, held to-day, 18 casks of tallow were sold at £29 5s. to £38 1s. per ton. A lot of sheepskins brought 6½d. per lb., and about 870 hides at from 7s. to 13s. 1d. each.

Messrs. Durham and Irwin held their usual weekly produce sale this day (Friday.)

Wool: The quantity sold was nine bales, at from 8½d. to 16d. per lb. Sheepskins: Over 4500 were submitted and disposed of, at rates equal to those of last week, viz., 5½d. to 6½d. per lb. Tallow: 104 casks were disposed of thus—beef (shipping), at £35 7s. 6d.; station, at £32 10s. to £36 5s. per ton. Hides: 1733 were catalogued, of which one lot of New Zealand were withdrawn at 15s., this price being considered below their value. The remainder found purchasers thus—first heavy, at 12s. 5d. to 13s. 6d.; medium weight, 9s. 3d. to 11s. 1d.; inferior, 5s. 6d. to 7s. 9d. Calfskins: at from 2s. to 2s. 8d. each. Tongues: One lot, at 12s. 6d. per dozen.

COMMERCIAL.

STOCK AND SHARE LIST.

[BARTON AND SONS.]

The business done this week has been limited by the amount of stock offered. We have demands for Union, New South Wales, and Commercial Bank stock, and for the steam stock; and for most of these an advance upon last prices could be obtained. Another new Insurance Company is projected; the prospectus will probably appear to-morrow. The prospectus of a new Coal Company has been issued this week, with a capital of £25,000, in shares of £5 each, deposit £1 per share. Application for shares to be made on or before 7th instant.

The following meetings have taken place this week, detailed reports of most of them have already appeared in this paper.

On the 28th, the Pyrmont Bridge Company. No dividend declared, but £3000 in debentures paid off.

28th.—The Sydney Exchange Company, adjourned meeting, no dividend, but profits, amounting to £838, to be applied towards the payment of debentures due in January next.

28th.—The Pacific Insurance Company.—Directors elected, and a committee of five appointed to confer with them as to the terms of the deed of settlement. Deposit payable 8th and 9th instant.

29th.—The Newcastle Coal and Copper Company.—Dividend at the rate of seven per cent, per annum, as before.

29th.—The Commercial Banking Company.—Dividend increased from 14 to 15 per cent. per annum. Surplus profits £67,465.

29th.—The Joint Stock Bank.—Dividend reduced from ten to eight per cent. per annum. Surplus profits £6650.

30th.—The Tomago Coal Mining Company.—Dividend reduced from 15 to 12½ per cent. per annum.

31st.—The Clarence and Richmond Steam Company.—Dividend, 12½ per cent. per annum, as before.

Our sales this week have been—
General Assurance shares, at £9 10s.
Australasian Steam shares, at £11 10s.
N. S. W. Government Debentures (1891), at 100¼ per cent. and interest accrued.

[LENNON AND CAPE.]

There has been a little more animation this week, and several transactions have taken place. Half-yearly meetings have been held and dividends declared in the following companies during the week.

The Australasian Steam Navigation Company, on the 25th instant, at which a very satisfactory report was made, and a dividend and bonus of 28s per share, or equal to 14 per cent. per annum. Holders are firm at quotations. The Commercial Banking Company, at which a good report was also read, and dividend declared at rate of 15 per cent. per annum, being an increase of 1 per cent. on last half-year. The Australian Joint Stock Bank's half-yearly report was not so favourable as could be wished, as some heavy losses were reported during the last half-year, and a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum only was declared, and the shares have suffered a slight temporary decline. The Clarence and Richmond River Steam company's half-yearly meeting showed a good statement declaring a dividend of 12½ per cent., besides paying off balance due upon their new steamer, out of profits. At the Tomago Coal Mining Company a good report was presented, and a dividend at the rate of 12½ per cent. per annum declared. The Newcastle Coal and Copper Company pay a dividend at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, for the past half-year, with good prospects for the future. The shares of the Pacific Fire and Marine Insurance Company have been enquired for, and we have sold a fair parcel at 7s 6d per share premium.

Our sales during the week have been—
Bank New South Wales, at £42
Illawarra Steam Navigation Company, at £4 12s 6d
Australian General Assurance, at £9 10s
Pacific Fire and Marine Assurance, at £2 7s 6d
Australian Joint Stock Bank, at £11 5s.
Sydney, 1st August, [redacted]

[J. MULLENS.]

There has been an average demand for shares during the past week, and the reports of the various meetings held during the week has caused some alterations of price.

The Commercial Bank has increased its dividend from 14 to 15 per cent. The Australian Joint Stock Bank has lowered its dividend from 10 to 8 per cent. As this has been done with the object of creating a reserve fund in place of that absorbed by the losses of the last two years, the value of their shares is not likely to be affected to any extent. The Australasian Steam Company has divided 28s. per share, being an increase of 3s. on last dividend. The Clarence Company the same as usual. The Coal and Copper Company has increased from 6 to 7 per cent., and the Tomago Coal Company lowered their rate from 15 to 12½ per cent.

I have sold a few A. S. N. Company's old shares at £30 ex dividend; a good parcel would command a higher rate. The new shares have improved 10s per share. I am a buyer of Wallsend shares, at last week's prices. Pacific Insurance Company shares have been sold at 7s 6d per share, being an increase of 2s 6d per share on the inquiries of last week.

My sales during the week have been—
Bank of New South Wales shares at £42.
Australasian Steam shares, £20 paid up, at £30 ex dividend.
Ditto ditto, £5 paid up, at £11 10s ex dividend.
Illawarra Steam shares, at £4 12s 6d.
Australian General Assurance shares, at £9 10s.
Sydney Exchange shares, at £3 15s.
1st August.

For town consumption there was less demand than usual, and several small parcels of station tallow were held over.

[O. B. BOSWORTH.]

Wool.—Little doing in this market, and the arrivals coastwise since last report have been below an average. All offering for sale, however, meets ready purchasers at prices that have been lately ruling. Among the lots sold to-day was a portion of a fair northern clip, in average condition, which realized 1s 5½d per lb., and some few bales of wool in grease, indifferently skirted, brought 10½d per lb.; inferior skin 11½d per lb.

Sheepskins have been more enquired for, and good station skins have realized 6d, and as high as 7d per lb., for superior conditioned.

Tallow.—This market is buoyant for shipping parcels, which have brought former quotations, say £35 to £35 7s 6d per ton. Soap and candle tallow has hardly maintained last week's rates, owing to a little dullness in the trade.

Hides.—Shipping parcels in demand and good average hides, but mixed weights have realised 11s to 12s 6d each; light, 9s 6d to 11s; dry and faulty cured, dull of sale.

Wool—Grease, JJ, 3 bales at 10½d; handwashed, GB&Co, 8 at 11½d; fleece, JT, 16 at 17½d; locks, ditto, 1 at 6d; mixed, DH, 1 at 7½d. Sheepskins—14 bundles at 6½d. Tallow—6 casks at 32s 6d, 2 at 35s, 7 at 34s 3d, 8 at 35s. Hides—32 at 5s 9d, 177 at 10s 6d, 142 at 10s 6d, 191 at 12s 6d.

July 31st.

[W. DEAN AND CO.]

Wool.—There is nothing fresh to notice; the prices realised for the small lots brought forward are the same as last quoted—only 65 bales have been offered at auction this week, of which 43 were sold.

Sheepskins.—The market is rather dull, only best full-fleeced skins being enquired for; about 8000 were offered, of which say 7000 were sold; prices same as last week.

Tallow.—341 casks were catalogued, 321 sold; last week's prices are without alteration. We have to report having sold privately 19 casks No. 1 Newington beef tallow at £35 7s 6d.

Hides.—The low rates lately ruling have attracted a few new buyers, which have not only checked the decline in prices, but have much improved the market for first-class parcels. 3360 were offered, of which 2644 were sold. The highest price realized for some weeks past, viz., 15s 1d was obtained at our sale to-day for a parcel of prime heavy hides, many of which weighed over 100 lbs.

Our sales to-day were, 1 bale sheepskins, at 6½d, 1 bale at 4d, 9 casks tallow at £35 12s 6d, 3 casks (Newington No. 1 beef) at £35 5s, 2 ditto mutton at £38, 2 casks at £35, 2 casks £29 5s; 16 hides 10s, 20 hides 7s 3d, 56 hides 8s 6d, 163 heavy hides 15s 1d, 15 light ditto 7s, 1 calfskin 18d, 180 Newington hides 13s.

Leather.—Our sales this week have been of average extent, at for kip 1s 5d to 1s 8d; sole at 8d to 9½d; kangaroo skins at 24s to 26s 9d; harness at 11d to 13d; calfskins at 2s 5d to 2s 10d; basils at 8s 3d to 10s 3d.

[DURHAM AND IRWIN.]

Wool.—There is little to report in this market; the quantities offered at the sales of this week have been smaller than usual, consisting mostly of the clearing up of sundry clips and odd lots of fellmongered. Ten bales were catalogued for our sale this day, of which 9 were disposed of as follows:—Locks, E, 2 bales at 8½d; skinwool, J, 7 bales at 16d per lb.

Sheepskins.—Fellmongers have purchased freely and at full rates this week. Over 5400 were disposed of as follows:—F&S, 3 bundles at 5½d; E, 9 bales at 6½d; TB, 1 bale at 5½d; JG, 8 bales at 6½d; JT, 1 lot at 6d; E, 1 lot at 6½d per lb.

Tallow.—The lots to hand this week (being principally from boiling-down establishments) were taken for shipment, the prices obtained for which are about the same as last week; 104 casks were placed thus:—TB, 1 cask at 36s 3d; JEB, 5 casks at 35s 6½d; 8 over W, 20 casks at 35s 4½d; T, 12 casks at 35s 4½d; P, 5 casks at 34s; M, 6 casks at 35s 4½d; JG, 9 casks at 36s; P, 3 casks at 32s 6d; B, 10 casks at 35s 4½d; N over A, 24 casks at 35s 4½d per cwt.

Hides have sold readily this week at full, and in some instances at advanced rates. At our sales, this day, over 1700 hides were brought forward, all of which (with the exception of one lot of New Zealand, which were bought in at 15s), were sold. Several prime parcels realised the following rates:—122 at 12s 6d, 141 at 12s 5d, 211 at 13s, 86 at 13s 6d, 173 at 12s 9d, 46 at 12s 9d, 43 at 13s; prices obtained throughout ranged thus: 26 at 5s 6d, 5 at 6s 9d, 121 at 9s 3d, 122 at 12s 6d, 141 at 12s 5d, 211 at 13s, 185 at 9s 6d, 86 at 13s 6d, 171 at 9s 9d, 173 at 12s 9d, 46 at 12s 9d, 108 at 11s 1d, 15 at 7s 9d, 8 at 4s, 92 at 11s, 43 at 13s. Calfskins: 6 at 2s, 11 at 2s 8d each. Smoked tongues, one lot at 12s 6d per dozen.

STOCK AND STATION REPORT.

[MR. THOMAS DAWSON.]

Fat Cattle.—Prime are in demand at last week's rates, from £4 to £4 10s; there is an abundance of second and third class quality, which of course are selling at nominal rates.

Fat Sheep.—There is a good demand for prime flocks, being few to hand, and are worth 16s to 17s. The supply of inferior sheep is plentiful.

Store Cattle.—Enquiries from the south for good well-bred mobs.

Store Sheep.—Few or no sales being effected, as the season is too far advanced.

Horses.—In demand if good.

Milch Cows plentiful, but chiefly of second class and inferior quality. Prices range from £1 to £10.

Produce at the Railway Auction Depot.—The supply was good and the attendance large. Prime roll butter is in especial demand and realises long prices. I quote as follows from yesterday's sale, viz.—Fat calves, 8s to 37s; lambs, 15s to 20s 6d; pigs, 12s to 41s; roasters, 3s 9d to 6s 6d; fowls, 2s 8d to 3s 9d; ducks, 3s 5d to 5s 6d; turkeys, 10s 6d to 15s; guinea fowls, 4s to 5s per pair; pork, 3½d to 5d per lb.; butter in roll, 21d to 28½d; in keg, 3d to 21d; eggs, 11d to 13d; bacon, 3½d to 7d; cheese, 5d to 6d; oranges, 4d to 6d per dozen; honey, 3½d to 5½d per lb.

1st August.

[MR. BREWSTER.]

Stations.—No alteration has taken place in the aspect of this market since last report; good sheep stations continue to be enquired for.

Store Cattle.—The demand still continues dull, enquiries entirely confined to well bred lots of selected ages. Quotations are, for equal sexes, 1 to 6 or 2 to 7, 22s 6d to 25s, on the station. The majority of sellers, however, are disposed to deliver at a distance in Queensland, or elsewhere, at a slightly increased price.

Store Sheep.—No transactions; buyers and sellers being at issue with regard to price,—the latter, in most cases, preferring to hold till after shearing.

1st August, 1862.

[R. FORBES.]

Sheep Stations.—I have sold "Maughan," or "East and West Kidgar," two blocks on the Castlereagh River, without stock, also applicant's right, title, and interest to two back blocks, for twelve hundred pounds cash.

Cattle Stations.—In very good positions and adapted for sheep, command paying rates.

Fat Cattle.—This market is looking up. Anything really prime would fetch £4 to £4 10s, second quality £3 10s and upwards.

Fat Sheep.—Heavy wethers, 54 lbs., will bring 17s. There are a great many light weights and poor to hand, which will not bring over store prices.

Store Cattle.—There is little or no demand. 30s to 35s for half-male and half-female, ages, 2 to 6, may occasionally be got.

[PITT AND SULLIVAN.]

STATIONS.—We notice no improvement in the demand for cattle stations, and as shearing is close at hand it is not likely there will be much doing in sheep properties till the clip is off.

Fat Cattle.—This market has, as we expected last week, gone up. Good cattle are worth £5. Middling and inferior, which were lately unsaleable, are now disposed of at fair rates. We sold during the week eight hundred and seventy-four head of fat cattle; one hundred and sixty (160) of Cain's, at £4; one hundred and four (104) of Adams', at £3 13s; one hundred and forty (140) of Eather's, at £3; one hundred (100) of Laycock's, at £3; one hundred and twenty (120) in the estate of the late Mr. Lunn, at £3 2s 6d, delivered on the station; also two hundred and fifty (250) of Robert Fitzgerald, Esq., delivered at Liverpool Plains, at four pounds (£4) per head.

Fat Sheep.—There is a great scarcity of good sheep in the market. Prime wethers would sell readily at 17s.; middling sheep are not worth more than 12s.

George-street, next door to the Commercial Bank.

SYDNEY LABOUR MARKET.

[HAIGH AND BROWN.]

THE recent numerous arrivals of immigrants by the Hotspur and other means of conveyance, have abundantly supplied our market with servants of a good description. The demand for labour is brisk, and engagements can be made at the subjoined rates of wages. Female servants of the requisite experience and character are still scarce:—

Married farm and domestic servants, £45 to £60

HORSE MARKET.

MR. CHARLES MARTYN reports:—The horse market has been dull during the past week, and consequently only but a limited amount of business has been done. Sales would doubtless have been more frequent were a better class of stock offered for sale—the majority of horses being very inferior. A sale of unbroken colts, of a useful description, was held at the Cattle Market yesterday; the prices ranged from £9 downwards. A second lot of fat oxen, the property of Charles Reynolds, Esq., was sold on Thursday last. They were hardly so prime a lot as the first, and consequently realised lower prices.

MAITLAND MARKETS.

FRIDAY, August 1st.—Business has been dull during the week, both with town and country. The country trade is likely to continue quiet until the new season's clip comes to hand. The markets are without any alteration.

Teas.—Good congous are quoted at £9 per chest; second quality, £8 to £8 5s.

Sugars.—Company's, £46 to £49 per ton; snowdrops £55 per ton; ration £36 to £37 per ton.

Brandy.—Martell's, 25s per gallon; pale brandy, from 52s to 72s per case; gin, key brand, 48s to 50s per case; whisky, 33s to 56s per dozen.

English Ale.—Bass' No. 3, £9 per hogshead.

Liverpool and fine salt are quoted at £5 to £6 10s per ton; rock salt, £8 per ton.

Rice.—High rates rule. It is quoted at £24 to £26 per ton.

Tobacco.—Negrohead still commands high rates, it is quoted at 8s to 9s per lb.; colonial tobacco in demand at 3s 6d to 4s per lb.; higher rates are anticipated. Cigars, No. 2, 95s to 100s per thousand.

Oilmen's stores.—Pickles, pints, 10s 6d to 12s per dozen; bottled fruits, 13s to 15s per dozen; salad oil, half-pints, 9s 6d to 10s 6d per dozen, pints 14s 6d to 18s 6d per dozen; sardines, ½-lb. tins 9s 6d to 10s per dozen, ¼-lb. tins, 13s 6d per dozen.

Woolpacks and three-bushel bags are in demand, the former at 4s 9d to 5s each; and the latter at 13s 6d per dozen.

Carriage for the interior plentiful.

Flour.—The local demand for flour is good; but the market is devoid of speculation. The millers are not disposed to sell large parcels at present rates. Fine flour is quoted at £16 per ton, seconds at £13.

Wheat.—The supply of wheat has been limited, prices have advanced a little, and may be quoted at 5s 6d to 5s 9d per bushel.

Maize.—Very little of this cereal has been brought forward this week. Quotations are from 3s to 3s 3d per bushel.

Bran and pollard are in fair demand, at £5 per ton wholesale, 6s per 100 lbs. retail.

ADELAIDE STOCK REPORT.

[DEAN, LAUGHTON, AND CO.]

ADVICES of copious rains having fallen in the North have been received.

Fat Cattle.—Supplies have arrived in sufficient quantities fairly to meet requirements. We do not hear of any large numbers being on the road to market, and we expect supplies will be light for a time. We have sold—at Adelaide, Nairne, and Williamston—31 head good cattle, for Messrs. Browne, averaging £6; 102 head middling to good cattle, light weights, for Mr. Kirby, averaging £4 18s 6d, including one very fine bullock at £15; 35 head inferior to middling cattle, for Mr. Cudmore, at £4 12s 6d; 15 inferior cattle, at £3 18s. Quotations—Best bullocks, £7 to £9; second best ditto, £5 to £6 15s; inferior ditto, £3 5s to £4 15s; best cows, £5 10s to £7; second best ditto £3 10s to £5.

Fat Sheep.—The market is more lightly supplied than it has been through the year, and as sheep farmers are holding for shearing, prices are likely to continue remunerative. Best wethers, up to 18s; second ditto, 14s to 16s; inferior at store rates.

Fat Lambs are coming into better demand. First quality realise 12s.

Fat Calves are becoming plentiful and prices falling.

Store Cattle are very dull of sale. We note that this class of stock is coming into good demand in Victoria.

Store Sheep.—Very few are in the market, and transactions are likely to be limited till after shearing. We have sold 1000 wethers at 11s.

Stations remain quiet.

NEWCASTLE.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

AUGUST 1.—A public meeting was held last evening in the Court-house, for the purpose of endeavouring to effect a reconciliation between the A. A. Company and the miners. The Court-house was crowded. His Worship the Mayor presided, and opened the proceedings by observing the parties who signed the requisition asking him to call the meeting apparently had taken no further steps in the matter, the room nor lights were not prepared, which was the duty of the requisitionists to see to; it could not be expected that he (the Mayor) was to attend to these matters, but some parties evidently thought all they had to do was to sign a requisition, and there the matter ended. He had made it his business to attend early in the afternoon in the hope of meeting some of the parties who had prepared resolutions, but he had waited until the opening of the meeting, and no one attended, and as far as he was aware, no resolutions had been drawn up; but he trusted some one had come prepared to move a resolution. Of course he could scarcely say what was the intention of the meeting, but he trusted the various speakers would avoid entering into the causes of dispute, either pro or con, as by so doing they would only widen the breach; he would suggest that, like on a former occasion, that a citizen committee be appointed to negociate between the Company and the miners.

Rev. Mr. CHAUSER, as one of the parties who signed the resolution, said he lived a long way out of town, and consequently was not aware but that everything would be arranged by the time of the meeting. The reverend gentleman then made some remarks on what was best to be done, and ultimately moved "That the following gentlemen be requested to act as a citizen committee, for the purpose of endeavouring to effect a reconciliation as regards matters in dispute between the A. A. Company and the miners lately in their employ;—the Mayor, Mr. Tighe, Rev. Mr. Dean, Mr. Bolton."

Mr. C. W. WILLIAMS seconded the motion, and the Rev. Mr. WHITFORD, supported the same in a very able and moderate speech.

The motion having been put, was carried unanimously.

Mr. BOLTON offered some remarks, but as he entered upon matters which were considered by the chairman as extraneous to the purport of the meeting, he retired, wishing his name to be withdrawn from the committee, as he refused to act.

The Rev. Mr. Whitford's name was then substituted in lieu of Mr. Bolton's.

Mr. HALL proposed a vote of censure of the parties signing the requisition and then not attending the meeting.

Mr. CANN seconded the motion.

Mr. C. W. WILLIAMS said he was authorised to tender an apology from Mr. Merrington, who was confined to his bed by illness; and for Mr. Bishop, who was in Maitland, on business.

Mr. P. C. BOSWELL made some remarks as to the reason he signed the requisition, which were considered satisfactory.

At the suggestion of his Worship the Mayor, the resolution was withdrawn.

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting separated.

ACCIDENT.—Last evening, about nine o'clock, while shipping coal at the Wallsend cranes, a man named W. Hill by some means fell beneath one of the trucks laden with coal, breaking both his legs. Drs. Bowker and Morgan immediately attended, and set one of the injured limbs,—the other it was found necessary to amputate below the knee.

COMMUNICATING WITH PRISONERS IN GAOL.—On Monday, Thomas Whittaker, who had been apprehended on the previous day by warder Paton, was brought before the bench charged with throwing a parcel over the gaol wall. It appears that parcels, generally containing tobacco and written communications, have several times been thrown over the gaol wall, and have been picked up by the prisoners. With a view of preventing this, Mr. Horsford caused a turnkey to be stationed outside the wall, and on Sunday, Paton detected prisoner in the act, and apprehended him. Prisoner in his defence, said that the package in question consisted of an old newspaper only. He was committed for trial at the ensuing quarter-sessions.—Goulburn Herald.

STERLING ADVANTAGES.—The advantages derived from a perfect knowledge of the business undertaken, must at once be apparent to all observers, since, in the first instance, it gives to the merchant or tradesman that judgment and discrimination that necessarily prevent deception being practised upon them in their purchases. And, secondly, by the introduction of only such goods as are precisely adapted to the wants of their customers, tend to an increase and successful development of their trade.
To a knowledge of these absolute requirements do Messrs. COHEN, BROTHERS, and CO. principally owe the position they now hold as the first MERCHANT TAILORS and GENERAL OUTFITTERS in the Australian colonies. Nor have these advantages been acquired otherwise than by years of careful study and practical experience in the qualities and general details of the clothing manufactured and sold by them. Their resources of capital being large, they are at all times prepared to purchase where ready money is an object, and the advantages of their experience and purchases are fully shared by those patronising their establishment. The mutual benefits thus given and bestowed proving the sound judgment of a fair and liberal system of trading.
In conclusion, Messrs. COHEN, BROTHERS, and CO. would draw attention to their VALUABLE STOCK of CLOTHING, for best and every-day use, now available for selection, confident that an inspection must still further increase the popularity of their manufactures, and a candid acknowledgment that their statements are not "mere puffs," but based upon reliable truths, and a strict adherence to superior styles, materials, and lowness of charges.

VALUABLE 39-ACRE FARM.

CATTAI CREEK, NEAR PARRAMATTA.

Title—Grant from the Crown to Vendor.
Terms at sale.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 13th August,
A capital Farm, situate on the Cattai Creek, parish of Castle Hill, containing about 39 acres of land, some portion of which is cleared.
The farm is distant about eight miles from Parramatta, on the Windsor Road, off a turning by Schofield's public-house, and is bounded by Titterton and Fuller's properties, the Cattai Creek, and a reserved road. It is fairly timbered, and has a never-failing supply of water.

ROCKHAMPTON.

VILLAGE OF ATHELSTANE, distant about one mile from the flourishing City of Rockhampton, at the junction of the DAWSON and PORT CURTIS ROADS).

Title—Direct from Crown to vendor.

Terms.—The purchaser to have the option of having half the purchase money secured upon the property.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the proprietor to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 27th August,
The whole of the lands in the VILLAGE OF ATHELSTANE, as recently surveyed and subdivided into BLOCKS of from 2½ to 4 ACRES EACH, with extensive frontages to the Dawson River and Port Curtis Roads, the GREAT THOROUGHFARES LEADING INTO ROCKHAMPTON.
The site for the beautiful
VILLAGE OF ATHELSTANE
was among the early land selections in that neighbourhood. It is distant only about ONE MILE FROM ROCKHAMPTON, and possesses greater prospective advantages than any other position round about that
RAPIDLY RISING CITY.
It is surrounded by the properties of W. H. Wiseman, Esq., C. C. L., Sir Charles Nicholson, and Messrs. Rowley, Frank, Chad, Larnach, Captain Cottier, and other wealthy and influential proprietors.
It is situated immediately
OPPOSITE THE WATER RESERVE,
the great camping place for drays, and is also bounded on the South by another Government reserve, intended doubtless for A PLACE of PUBLIC RECREATION.
From the peculiarity of its position, its many local advantages, and its proximity to Rockhampton, there cannot be a doubt that within a very short period ATHELSTANE will become PART OF THE CITY.
The proprietor has, however, with praiseworthy liberality had it subdivided into BLOCKS of 2½ to 4 ACRES, leaving room for further subdivision, and therefore the CERTAINTY of great PROFIT to the first purchasers.
To the foregoing simple description, MORT and CO. have only to add that the whole of the allotments will be positively sold.
Large PLAN on view at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

SALES BY AUCTION.

CITY MANSION and GROUNDS.

CAMPBELL LODGE and GROUNDS, POTTS' POINT,

Adjoining the mansion and grounds of WILLIAM M'QUADE, Esq., and surrounded by the following well-known properties—"GRANTHAM," the residence of Mrs. DANGAR; "TARPEIAN," the residence of JAMES HOW, Esq.; and the properties and residences of Messrs. WANT, MARTIN, J. WILSHIRE, MOORE, and others.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 4th August, at 11 o'clock,

That first-class commodious CITY MANSION, CAMPBELL LODGE, WYLDE-STREET, POTTS POINT.

This first-class CITY MANSION is throughout substantially built of stone in the ENGLISH GOTHIC STYLE, and situated nearly in the extreme end of the above favourite Point, adjoining the mansion and grounds of William M'Quade, Esq., and surrounded by the following valuable properties, viz.—"Grantham," the residence of Mrs. Danger; "Tarpeian," the residence of James How, Esq.; and the well-known properties and residences of Messrs. Want, Martin, Wilshire, Moore, and others.

The house is approached by a carriage drive from Wylde-street, as well as by a private entrance, and contains the following accommodation, viz.—

On the ground floor—

Hall	9 ft. wide.	Study	..12 x 10
Dining-room	..29 x 18	Cloak room	..11 x 9
Drawing-room	..20 x 14	Butler's pantry	..18 x 10

Boudoir	..18 x 12

On the upper floor are twelve apartments, comprising spacious bedrooms, dressing-rooms, two bath-rooms, with hot and cold water, and three patent water-closets.

The INTERNAL FINISHING and DECORATIONS of some of these rooms are, in style and extent, unusual in the colony. The drawing-room is separated from the library by folding doors panelled with mirrors; they form together one magnificent reception-room more than 50 feet in length, leading to a very elegant conservatory, with fountain at one end. The dining-room is a finely proportioned apartment, panelled in the Tudor style.

The ceilings, cornices, and other mouldings in these rooms are most elaborate, and, together with the whole of the fittings, have been completed with unusual artistic taste and elegance.

The GROUNDS surrounding Campbell Lodge have a frontage of about 250 FEET to WYLDE-STREET, POTTS' POINT.

They are attractively laid out in parterres, lawn, and shrubberies, intersected with trellised vine avenues, and romantic walks, adorned with fountains and rare exotic plants. They command one of those magnificent views of harbour scenery, for which this part of Potts' Point is famous. A stone verandah 90 feet long by 8 feet wide, with ornamental iron pilasters, runs round the garden front, and five fountains can be seen at play opposite the principal windows, reflected by as many mirrors, forming the most charming arcadian picture imaginable.

The out-buildings comprise a large coach-house 40 x 16, with loft above, stables and loose boxes, harness-room, store, &c., &c.

LITHOGRAPHIC PLANS, with SKETCH of the HOUSE, also CARDS to VIEW, may be obtained at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

N.B.—These blocks of land, though subdivided as above according to plan, will be offered and sold in lots of any size, to suit purchasers.

☞ The allotments occupy some of the best positions in Newcastle, many of them having frontages to the leading thoroughfares, and in the best business streets in the city, close to the principal public buildings, and therefore admirably adapted for business purposes; while others of them are in elevated and healthy positions, particularly suitable as sites for first-class residences, for which the growing necessities of the city create a great demand.

Newcastle is advantageously situated for great commercial enterprise. Its extensive and beautiful harbour, the inexhaustible extent and richness of its mineral resources, and being the outlet for a large area of agricultural land of unsurpassed fertility, all point out its present and prospective value. A continuation and an extension of its immense shipping trade may be fairly calculated on, as it is the great terminus and shipping port for the several lines of rail which must ultimately traverse the districts to the north and west, including the great trunk line to Armidale, now completed to Singleton. It must be borne in mind that the Government have but little land in Newcastle, and any possessed by the A. A. Company is far from the centre of business.

Labourers, mechanics, miners, and capitalists are earnestly invited to avail themselves of the advantages now offered, and inspect the above sites, which will positively be disposed of on the above date.

On TUESDAY, 12th August.

DODDS and CO. have received instructions from Messrs. Burdekin to sell by auction, at Mr. Hewitt's Hotel, Singleton, on TUESDAY, 12th August, at 12 o'clock,

A large number of building allotments—in fact, the major part of the unsold lots in the town of Singleton, situate in George, High, Campbell, John, York, Castlereagh, Pitt, William, Bathurst, Church, Sussex, Bishopgate streets, and other parts of the town.

Lithographic plans are on view at the office of the Auctioneers; at the office of Mr. Kingston, Singleton; and at the office of Mr. Burdekin, Macquarie-street, Sydney. The abstracts of title are in course of printing, and can be seen at the above places in a few days.

Particulars as to title can be obtained from Messrs. Billyard and Curtis, solicitors, Hunter-street, Sydney.

Terms, liberal.

The Auctioneers have great pleasure in inviting particular attention to this important and extensive sale of building allotments in the rising and improving town of Singleton. As the railway to Singleton will shortly be completed, there is no doubt that it will give an impetus to trade, and cause a great demand for building sites. The allotments are of a good size, suitable either for places of business, public buildings, or dwellings. There is no question that Singleton is now a flourishing place, and will become much more so upon the line being opened, which is expected by the end of the year.

15,000 superior SHEEP and 100 HEAD of HORSES.

Drays, Stores, &c., at a valuation.

TERMS.—One-half cash on the fall of the hammer; the balance by promissory notes at one and two years' date from day of sale, with bank interest added, and security upon the stock and stations.

MR. THOMAS CADELL has received instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. Glass and Corrigan, to sell by auction, at the Northumberland Hotel, West Maitland, on WEDNESDAY, 13th August, at 12 o'clock,

All those splendid fattening stations known as Wallah, and Baan Baa South, occupying a frontage of about 13 miles to the Namoi River, including a frontage of about 3 miles to the famous Broadwater, thus securing a permanent and never-failing supply of water in the driest seasons; in fact these are about the best watered runs in the Northern districts, as they are intersected by excellent creeks, springs, and large lagoons, thus making the whole of the back country available for depasturing sheep.

There are springs always running at the back of the Wallah Run, capable of watering 4000 sheep in all seasons.

The runs have a depth varying from 7 to 12 miles, and are well grassed with herbage of excellent fattening quality, and the country consists of plains, open ridges and forests, with myall and saltbush in abundance.

1920 acres of land have been applied for and measured under pre-emptive right, which the purchaser of the stations will be enabled to secure at £1 per acre—640 acres securing the improvements on Wallah, and 320 acres the springs before referred to. The remaining 960 acres have been judiciously selected on the Baan Baa South Run, and the acquisition of the whole adds materially to the value of the stations.

With the above will be sold—

15,000 superior FINE-WOOLED SHEEP, nearly full fleeced, as follows:
4000 ewes, 4 to 5 years old, to lamb in September
1300 ewes, 3 years to full-mouthed
2800 ewes, 12 to 18 months
2500 wethers, 1½, 2, and 3 years
1000 wethers, 4, 5, and 6 years
2500 wethers, 1 year old
700 mixed sexes, 8 months
200 rams

15,000 sheep, more or less.

100 horses, more or less, will be mustered and delivered to purchaser.
Teams, drays, stores, &c., &c., at a valuation.
Delivery within fourteen days after sale.

The improvements are very substantial, there being every necessary convenience—making the Head Station a BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE for a family.

The Improvements comprise—
A LARGE HOUSE, six rooms, with verandah—all floored; also,
A new house, four rooms, shingled and floored, kitchens, &c.
New huts, for shearers and men
Stables, two stalls, two loose boxes
Other out-houses, dairy, &c.
Large woolshed, with yards, and every requisite for shearing
Lever woolpress, worked with blocks and capstan
Hurdles
Three good stockyards
Shepherds' huts, and yards for 20,000 sheep
A large grass paddock, about 800 acres; and a smaller horse paddock
Three acres of land, in full cultivation as a kitchen garden
Orchard and vineyard, about a quarter of an acre.

The Auctioneer has much pleasure in directing the attention of capitalists, squatters, speculators, and others, to the sale of the above well known fattening stations, situate within an easy distance from market, well watered, with substantial improvements, and possessing every requisite to render their acquisition a sure and certain fortune.

In offering these splendid pastoral properties to public competition, the proprietors have been actuated by a desire to allow of the stations being immediately remunerative to the purchaser, and they have consequently determined to deliver before shearing and lambing, thus giving the purchaser the advantage of at once receiving a large return for his outlay, in the shape of the clip of 15,000 sheep, and the increase from 4000 superior ewes.

It will be sufficient to state that the stations are for positive sale, and intending purchasers are particularly requested to inspect the runs and sheep, every facility for which will be afforded on applying to one of the proprietors at Wallah; or to the overseer.

Day of sale, August 13th.

THE ALNWICK COAL MINING COMPANY.—Capital, £25,000, in 5000 shares of £5 each.

PROVISIONAL DIRECTORS.
Thomas Holt, Esq., M.L.A., Sydney.
Alexander M'Arthur, Esq., M.L.C., Sydney.
J. B. Rundle, Esq., Sydney.
Benjamin Lee, jun., Esq., West Maitland.
George Vindin, Esq., West Maitland.

PROSPECTUS.

The land in which lies the coal proposed to be worked under the above title is situated at Alnwick, in the county of Northumberland, near Hexham. It comprises 300 acres, held from the Government under the new Land Bill, on a lease of fourteen years, at 5s. per acre per annum, renewable for fourteen years more, at the same rental, on payment of a fine of £2 10s. per acre; or it may be converted into freehold after an expenditure of £2 per acre, on payment of that price to the Treasury. About 100 acres of the adjoining land has also been leased for a term of fourteen years, at a small lordship.

The coal on the land lies in two seams, one at a depth of 60 feet, 5 feet 3 inches thick, the other at a depth of 148 feet, 8 feet thick. The upper seam contains a bright hard coal, similar to that of the Wallsend Company, and is of excellent quality throughout. The lower seam contains a first-class steam coal. This seam consists of 3½ feet coal, of which 1½ foot at the top is inferior and available only as a roof, then a band of 4 inches of stone, after which there is 4 feet of coal, all good. The outcrop of these seams is visible about a mile from the mouth of the bore towards the north; and from it, and from various borings sunk on the land, it is evident that the whole of it contains the above coal. It is proposed to work only the upper seam, unless the demand for coal should require an extension of operations. Samples of the borings may be seen at the offices undermentioned.

The place is most favourably situated for conveying the coal to market. The mouth of the proposed pit is about 1600 yards from the Great Northern Railway, and would require—inclusive of the curve, and junction, and all sidings—a branch line of about 2000 yards in length. The land falls in a gentle slope down from the pit to the railway, with no engineering difficulties at all to be overcome. The distance from the pit to the wharf at Newcastle is 14 miles, from Morpeth 7½ miles, and from Hexham 3½ miles, and the Government charge for haulage is 2d. per ton per mile.

The owner of the lease, Mr. James Donaldson, requires £8000 for it, but is so confident of the success of the undertaking, that he is willing to receive the whole amount in shares, say 1600 shares of £5 each. He is residing on the spot and offers his services as supervisor of the works at a nominal rate until the mine commences delivery. The cost of the line and machinery, plant, &c., has been carefully estimated, and will amount to about £9000. The preliminary expenses of deed of settlement, acts of incorporation, and railway construction, together with cost of land, &c., &c., will amount to about £1500. This will leave a margin of over £7000 on the capital of £25,000 available for further outlay when required.

A call of £1 per share will be made on allotment, and the remainder be called up as the works progress, in instalments of £1 each.

It is estimated that a delivery of only 30,000 tons of coal per annum (the local consumption being about 20,000 tons per annum), at 12s. per ton, will give a net profit of £4000 per annum, available for distribution among the shareholders. This would pay a dividend of fifteen per cent. per annum on the full amount of £25,000; and there is no reason to doubt, that the expanding coal trade of the colony will call for a much larger supply than the mines now at work are producing.

It is proposed to sink a trial shaft in the first instance, so that the shareholders may stay their hands if the rich promise in the borings be not fully borne out. The cost of this will be about £300, and Mr. Donaldson will give his gratuitous services in superintending this part of the work. Should it be determined not to proceed with the undertaking, the deposit will be returned, less expenses, to the subscribers. The Proprietor's shares will not participate in such division.

Application for shares, in the form to be found as under, may be made on or before the 7th August next, to the Provisional Directors, addressed to the care of Mr. THOMAS CADELL, West Maitland; or Mr. J. MULLENS, sharebroker, 133, Pitt-street, Sydney, of whom prospectuses and forms of application may be obtained.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

To the Provisional Directors of the Alnwick Coal Mining Company.

Gentlemen,—I have to request that you will allot me Shares in the Alnwick Coal Mining Company, and I hereby agree to accept the same or any less number that may be allotted to me, to pay the calls as specified in the Prospectus, and to sign the Deed of Settlement when requested to do so.
